New transient rental ordinance is opposed by real estate agents

By JOANNE HODGEN

A PROPOSED TRANSIENT RENTAL ordinance which would sharply curtail vacation rental businesses in Carmel is being grimly accepted by local real estate agents.

The Carmel City Council has ordered city staff to draw up an ordinance making it illegal to rent homes in the residential district for 30 days or less.

The proposed ordinance would also make it illegal to advertise transient rentals. Owners, their agents and the publication that the ad appeared in would be held responsible.

Violation would be a misdemeanor carrying a maximum penalty of a $500 fine or six months in jail or both.

The council will review the ordinance at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 5, in City Hall.

RESIDENTS OBJECTING to short-term rentals in their neighborhoods packed the City Council chambers Dec. 8.

Complaining that the community is deteriorating because of vacation rentals, they called for the City Council to enact an ordinance banning short-term rentals of 30 days or less.

No representatives from local real estate agencies appeared at the meeting.

However, a letter written by Jack Martin of Carmel Realty Co. was read to the council by City Administrator Doug Peterson.

Martin estimated there were 94 transient rental properties in Carmel managed by local real estate agencies.

Martin wrote, "I am definitely opposed to the proposed transient rental ordinance because I do not believe it is necessary, and secondly because the enforcement of it would be virtually impossible, and it would probably drive many property owners 'underground.'"

He noted that he is not in favor of rentals for periods shorter than a week.

SAYING THAT LOCAL agencies had worked closely with the council in the past, Jack Miller of the San Carlos Agency observed, "We felt we had said it all."

Though he was unhappy with the council action, he said the San Carlos Agency would comply with the ordinance.

Four days after the council meeting, Miller said he canceled a vacation rental ad in the Pine Cone.

JUNE POOLE of Vintage Reality in Carmel said few people can take a month or more off to rent a vacation home in Carmel.

She observed Carmel merchants may be affected by the loss of vacation rentals. "People who have businesses here get a lot of revenue from vacationers," she said.

Noting that she is very selective of renters, Mrs. Poole said only one complaint has been received at her office.

Mrs. Poole said local real estate agents are being punished for the actions of a few people outside the area.

She said problems at one time were created by motels that used homes for overflow guests. That has largely ceased,

The aftermath of the Carmel Woods fire.

Man charged in fire that destroyed parents' home

A MAN HAS been charged with setting the fire that destroyed his parents' Carmel Woods home Sunday, Dec. 14.

Christopher Allen Carley, 30, is charged in connection with the fire at the home of his parents, retired Army Col. and Mrs. John W. Carley at 24225 San Pedro Lane.

Fire investigators estimated damage at $350,000.

Carley was to be arraigned Tuesday (Dec. 16) in Monterey County Superior Court on charges of arson of an inhabited structure, according to Assistant District Attorney Bill McCardle.

Carley's parents were not at home at the time of the fire, he said.

A sheriff's spokesman said flammable fluid was apparently used to ignite a pile of clothing in the attic.

Carley went to the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, though he received no treatment, a hospital spokeswoman stated.

David Goldemberg of the California Department of Forestry said the fire, which was reported at 7:58 p.m., was brought under control by 9:30 p.m. Two firetrucks from the Rio Road and Carmel Hill stations, a vehicle from Carmel and one from Monterey responded, Goldemberg said.

According to Goldemberg, the fire had consumed the split-level house by the time firefighters arrived. Firefighting was hampered, he said, by the collapse of an upper roof and floor.

Only the garage, which was partially damaged, and a vehicle inside were spared, Goldemberg said.

He said flames threatened nearby homes and trees but caused no damage.

CARMEL GRADUATES PASS BAR EXAM

Two of this year's graduates from the Monterey College of Law are among those who successfully passed the state bar examination.

They are Dacia A. Burz, who passed the examination in July, and Barry T. Mangan, who passed the examination in February, even before completing his classwork. Both are from Carmel.

The nine-year-old law school has had 38 graduates since the first class left in 1977. Of that number, 37 have passed the bar. The statewide success rate for the bar exam dropped to 50.2 percent this year.

HOSPITAL NAMES FIRST MALE HEAD NURSE

Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula announces the appointment of its first male head nurse.

He is Richard Valentine, 30, a registered nurse employed at the hospital for three years. Valentine has been placed in charge of the hospital's Garden South floor, which includes 26 beds and handles medical-surgical and pediatrics patients.

Valentine and his wife, Elaine, live in Seaside.

BASIC TRAINING COMPLETED

Army Pvt. Michael W. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Hughes of Carmel, has completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

During his training, Hughes received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and military history and traditions.

Scenic Road 18-foot home is approved

DESPITE OBJECTIONS from neighbors, the Regional Coastal Commission has unanimously approved a permit for an 18-foot high home on Scenic Road between 10th and 11th.

The commission, which held earlier hearings on the property owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, met Monday, Dec. 8. The property now has a one-story home on it.

Designed by architect David Smith, the initial proposal was rejected by the commission, which recommended the 22-foot height be lowered to meet the tentative guidelines of the Carmel Local Coastal Program. The Carmel LCP is to be reviewed by the commission in January.

The architect lowered the height to 18 feet above the property grade. However, neighbors complained that the view would be partially blocked and the building out of character with the neighborhood.

The Carmel City Council endorsed the architectural concept in October.

Because the height had been lowered four feet through property excavation and structural changes, the commission authorized the building permit.

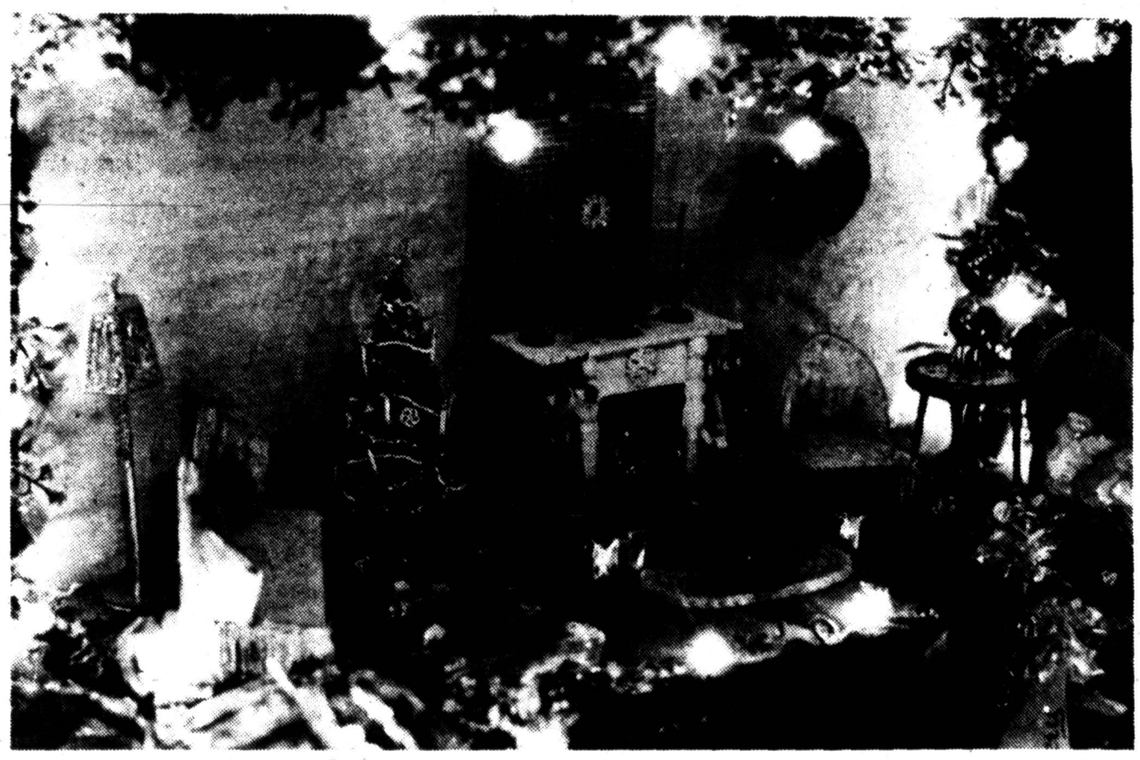
Chess tourney is planned

CHESS PLAYERS at Carmel Middle School are invited to participate in a tournament with junior high school students from around the Monterey Peninsula.

The tournament, sponsored by the Monterey County MUD Squad, will be at 1 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20, in the Seaside Community Center, 986 Hilby Ave.

Teams from each school must consist of five players and an adult coach. Players on the winning team will each receive a chess set and be eligible to play the winning team from a tournament in the Salinas Valley.



Business would have mail boxes for rent

By JOANNE HODGEN

THE U.S. POST OFFICE in Carmel may have some competition if a private mail service is approved by the Carmel Planning Commission.

An application for the Mail Box of Carmel was presented to the Business License and Code Review Board Dec. 4. The applicant, John Carney, owner of the Mailbox in Monterey, wants to rent about 300 private mail boxes.

However, Carney will have to put his proposed business on hold until the Planning Commission decides if it is allowed in Carmel. The commission was to review the proposal Wednesday, Dec. 17.

Planning Director Bob Griggs told Carney the Planning and Zoning Code does not allow what he proposes.

Griggs explained that if a use is not listed in the code, it is not allowed. In determining the category of the business, Griggs said it would be allowed if it were classified as a "messenger service." A message center without mail boxes would be permitted, he said.

Because the definition is hazy, Griggs said, "I'd rather the Planning Commission consider it rather than make it a staff decision."

Griggs said he does not want the Planning Commission to amend the ordinance to suit one business. That could mean a long delay if the mail service were added to the Planning and Zoning Code, he explained.

It would have to be reviewed first by the Planning Commission then forwarded to the City Council, he said. If the council approved the amendment it would then be sent to the Coastal Commission, according to Griggs.

However, if the Planning Commission classifies it as a messenger service in December, then the mail box of Carmel could go into business in January, according to Griggs.

THE BUSINESS is proposed on the north side of Eighth between San Carlos and Dolores.

Susan Carney, part owner of the business, said services would also include United Parcel Service pickup and delivery and a phone message service. She said clients could phone in to see if they have mail.

According to Mrs. Carney, the monthly cost of renting a standard mail box would be $10 to $27 quarterly; a larger box would be $12 monthly or $33, quarterly.

Mail boxes at the Carmel-by-the-Sea Post Office rent for $5 to $15 yearly. A caller fee is an additional $12 a year.

Mrs. Carney said small businesses or people who want a regular mail box when there is a shortage at nearby post offices are a majority of their clients.

DAVE MARADEI, station manager of the Carmel-by-the-Sea post office, said there are 5,086 boxes here.

He said 70 people are on a two-month waiting list. He noted that the Carmel post office off Rio Road has 2,500 boxes with only 1,800 rented.

Maradei said the Postal Service views businesses like the Mail Box a legitimate enterprise.

"My own personal viewpoint is I don't like it," Maradei said. "I believe in a monopoly of the mail. I believe the mail is a sacred trust."

Maradei observed that for only 15 cents someone can mail a letter from Guam to Maine.

Rentals

according to Mrs. Poole.

"I'M NOT too pleased with it," said Barbara Wermuth of Carmel Realty Co.

She estimated the ordinance will eliminate 35 to 40 homes of the 48 that she manages. "This will cut into my job," she lamented.

Mrs. Wermuth asked what she and other agents were to do who had taken deposits for vacation homes into September 1981 for the Monterey Jazz festival.

She described the ordinance as "making a mountain over a molehill."

Stating that the council chambers were stacked against the real estate agents, Mrs. Wermuth said she objected to claims that transient rentals were degrading the neighborhood.

The agency pays gardeners and maintenance people to care for the homes, she said and added, "I strictly manage the property."

According to Mrs. Wermuth, many transient rentals are owned by people out of town who hope to retire here. Those homes will be vacant if only rentals of more than 30 days are allowed, she said. "An empty house doesn't make the neighborhood look good," she stated.

The Carmel Planning Commission intended those homes to be turned into full-time rentals, she said. It will not work, Mrs. Wermuth claimed, because homes are fully furnished by the owners for their own use when they come to Carmel for vacations. Their vacation plans, she said, would be infringed upon if a full-time renter lived in their home.

Property owners upset by the council decision have told Mrs. Wermuth they will file a class-action suit against the city.

THOUGH THE COUNCIL decision will throw a roadblock in front of vacation plans of many people, some council members agreed that the ordinance was needed to protect the neighborhood character of Carmel.

Councilman Mike Brown blamed rental nuisances on real estate offices in other areas.

However, he emphasized that regardless of who was creating the problem, transient rentals are a commercial use in a residential district. "That is not fair to people who expect to live in a residential area," he said.

"A person who rents a house for more than 30 days will be more concerned with the neighborhood."

He said the new ordinance will make it easier for the city to enforce the zoning code. "Now the staff has been told to move, enforce the law," he stated.

Though Councilman Howard Brunn cast the only dissenting vote at the meeting Dec. 8, he said he supported the concept of the ordinance.

"I'd prefer we enact what we decided Monday, but make it a 13-day limit so we won't eliminate Bach Festival visitors," he said.

Brunn said that may be a case of "overkill." The real problem, he stated, was the short-term, motel-type rentals, which have been largely eliminated.

Councilman Frank Lloyd, who abstained (an abstention is counted as a yes vote under city law), said he wants the city to enforce the ordinance now on the books.

"The problem came when people bought a house with the intent of breaking the law and using it as a tax loophole," Lloyd said.

He noted that neighborhood disruptions are not necessarily caused by transient renters. "We had a case (house) near us that was rented permanently to people who gave problems to neighbors . . . who gave more trouble than transient renters," Lloyd said.

Bob Griggs, city planning director, said the council took the proper action.

If transient rentals are to be allowed, Griggs observed, they should be in special zones to protect the residential character of the city.

He said speculators who rent homes for short periods have driven home prices up. "If they speculate I think they should lose," he said.

Chief Building Inspector Ron Warren explained that though transient rentals have been illegal in the past, the new ordinance will "flat out say you will not rent. The way it is now, transient rentals are illegal by implication."

Despite stronger wording, Warren said enforcement will continue to be difficult.

"The ones who are law-abiding will comply. The ones who are disobeying the law will continue to do so," he said.

Warren said his office has received 12 to 18 complaints from residents about transient rentals since he began working for the city eight years ago.

Only one person has been prosecuted and convicted, Warren observed.

He said statements at the council meeting that problems were caused by negligent enforcement were untrue. "When we get a complaint we go out to investigate," Warren said.

Unlike the building code, in which a misplaced wire is evidence of a violation, the transient rental violations are harder to prove, he said.

Transient occupants will say they are relatives or family friends of the owners, Warren explained. "With people you have to rely on what they're telling you," according to Warren.

He emphasized that successful enforcement is dependent on the neighbors. "You have got to have citizen involvement. There is no way an employee will get so familiar with the neighborhood that he will recognize cars and people on the property," Warren stated.

"Neighbors know who should be there."

BRADFORD CARL
Dentist

The "holistic" concept of medicine is also a concern of dentistry, and Dr. Bradford Carl, new on the scene in Carmel, is one of its proponents.

Carl describes himself as a generalist whose emphasis is on preventive dentistry. The general health of his patients — whether children or adults — is his concern. "It's a question of how the patient's teeth, gums and occlusion correlate with the general health of his body," Carl explained.

He was introduced to dentistry as a profession by his older sister, a dental hygienist. He liked what he saw of her working world, especially the element of working so directly with people.

Carl's education and training — both undergraduate and professional — were at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland. He started practicing in Cleveland in 1979. Then California beckoned, in part because his sister was living in Southern California. The next step was to Salinas, where he was associated with another dentist for six months. Then came an opportunity to buy the Carmel practice of Dr. Roderick McArthur (at Fourth and Mission) and moving days ended, except for the pleasant task of taking over a home at Monterey and Second.

The Carls were attracted to this area by its scenery and climate. When this young dentist is doing the talking in his office, it may well be about sports and his latest golf score; proximity to so many fine courses was a speical attraction. Mrs. Carl works for Richard Berlin, an estate planner with offices in the Rancho area.

McArthur is staying on for about six months before retiring, and then Carl will be on his own.

He is already thinking of himself and his wife as permanent residents.

YOUR PERSONAL SHOPPER
Joan Helmling

Joan Helmling said she is giving something back to Carmel for all the pleasure she gains not only from being a resident, but now from having a business that serves residents (and, incidentally, tourists).

She launched her shopping service just a week ago. Everywhere she goes, she said she is warmly received and suggestions for expansion of this fledgling service are pouring in to her special phone (624-6858).

It all began because Mrs. Helmling became a personal shopper for her elderly mother and an older friend. In fact it was her mother who pointed out that what she found so helpful would also be appreciated by many of the residents of Del Mesa, Hacienda Carmel and other senior residences. That was the seedling; now there are opportunities to shop for people of all ages and the prospects are good for other activities — whatever working people or older Carmelites don't have time to do for themselves or are unable to do.

For example, a separate service primarily for men. Mrs. Helmling will remind them of anniveraries, birthdays, office staff occasions, etc., and then do the shopping for appropriate gifts. Later that may extend to planning parties and related activities.

Because she is also a travel agent, Mrs. Helmling is particularly aware of the importance of having the right wardrobe for travel. One man she assisted recently was a widower about to go on his first cruise by himself. Among the things she was able to do for him was to introduce him to shoes ideal for deckwear.

There is a special quality to Mrs. Helmling's relationship with owners of local stores. Because she has lived here for many years, she said she knows most of them and they know and trust her. That allows her to take out a number of outfits or articles on approval for her clients, just as she did and still does for her mother. For her part, she cites meeting people in new businesses as "one of the most fun things" about her own enterprise.

Mrs. Helmling grew up on the Peninsula while her father was stationed at Fort Ord. When the family moved to Pasadena in 1946, she told her parents that someday she would come back to Carmel to live. She looked forward to marrying, having a family and raising her own children here. Twenty-three years ago, soon after her marriage, she did just that. Her husband, Dean, was working for a life insurance company at the time and wangled a transfer. Now he is a national account specialist with Lockwood Technical Inc., next to the Army the largest employer on the Peninsula.

The Helmlings have two children: David, 26, is "the only non-Connell working at Carmel Glass" and Janice, 17, is a senior at Carmel High. They have owned and sold several homes in the area and now live in an Arroyo Carmel Condominium on Rio Road.

In addition to her experience as a travel agent, Mrs. Helmling was office manager for three physicians — which gave her ample opportunity to see how helpful someone could be with a reminder and shopping service for them. Also, she was the first treasurer of Welcome Wagon on the Peninsula and at that time thought it would be fun to watch the growth that was obviously coming to the Peninsula. She mentions that now with a somewhat rueful smile.

Before long, Mrs. Helmling expects to have an associate to help her. But the aspect of personal shopping will remain as her own bailiwick.

Because of the long-term development of her relationship with local store owners and managers, she says, "I am what the business is."

RED CROSS SEEKS BLOOD DONORS

The Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross bloodmobile will be stationed Friday, Dec. 19, at Holiday Inn Carmel, Highway 1 and Rio Road, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Luncheon will be served and transportation provided for those wishing it. For more information, call 624-6921.

The Red Cross said most healthy people 17 to 66 can donate blood.

MPVS BENEFITS TWO AGENCIES

Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services has presented checks for $6,500 each to Visiting Nurse Association and Family Service Agency.

The checks were presented at the MPVS December meeting by Mrs. S.Y. Cutler, chairman of the group's annual fall sale. Accepting them were Robert Priestly, president of VNA, and Don Hovland, executive director of FSA.

Mrs. Elizabeth Christianson, MPVS finance chairman, reported MPVS donations to the community for 1980 totaled $51,031. The money came from the MPVS Thrift Shop in Seaside, the annual fall sale and other projects.

The Thrift Shop is closed Dec. 15 to Jan. 5 for refurbishing and restocking.

HOSPICE LAUNCHES SUPPORT DRIVE

The Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula has launched a year-end community support drive to bridge the gap between patients' ability to pay and the actual costs of Hospice home care services to patients facing life-threatening illnesses.

Stretched to its maximum caseload, the Hospice said its home care program serves 25 patients and their families.

Tax-deductible contributions may be sent to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, Box 7235, Carmel 93921.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT SEEKS ADVISERS

The Monterey County Health Department is seeking people to serve on advisory boards for planning and review of alcohol and drug problems.

The county Alcoholism Advisory Board now has two vacant positions, one requiring residency in Supervisorial District 3 in south county, and the other in District 2, the Salinas area.

One vacancy also exists on the county Technical Advisory Committee on Drug Abuse. Representation from the law enforcement field is needed to fill this position, as is county residency.

Interested persons may contact the county Health Department, Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse, at 373-0111 for more information.

UNITED WAY CAMPAIGN

Norm Chetlin, campaign chairman of the Monterey Peninsula United Way, reports the 1980 campaign is now at $339,257, or 62.8 percent of the $540,000 goal.

Chetlin said volunteers are optimistic about reaching the full goal.

RETIRED OFFICERS' YULE PARTY

The Monterey County chapter of the Retired Officers' Association will hold its Christmas party at Rancho Canada Saturday, Dec. 20.

The program will include an exchange of gifts, Christmas carols and installation of new board members. The evening will begin with a no-host social hour at 6:30, with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

For further information and reservations, call Bob Olson, 625-2218.

PANETTA COSPONSORS ITALIAN QUAKE AID

The House of Representatives has adopted legislation, cosponsored by Rep. Leon E. Panetta, D-Monterey, to provide $50,000,000 for emergency relief and reconstruction in southern Italy.

The area was devastated recently by an earthquake that left thousands dead and homeless.

"The American people want to give all the help they can, and this legislation will provide immediate relief as well as a beginning for reconstruction efforts," Panetta said.

Panetta suggested those wishing to help should contact the American Red Cross office in Carmel.

BURNING INFORMATION

A new policy by the Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District will enable farmers and ranchers to plan burning operations a day ahead.

Effective immediately, the district will obtain the burn designation at 4 p.m. for the following day, and will notify KDON, KIDD, KCTY and KOMY and the Monterey County Communications Department.

Until now, the burn day information was not available to the district until 7:45 a.m.

SUPERVISORS ATTEND ORIENTATION

Two Monterey County supervisors-elect recently attended a special orientation in Anaheim sponsored by the County Supervisors Association of California.

They are Marc Del Piero, 1st District, and William G. Peters, 5th District.

SANTA DRIVES FOR PENINSULA TRANSIT

Santa Claus will be driving for Monterey Peninsula Transit again this holiday season, giving candy canes and a free ride to all who board his bus.

Santa will make his first appearance Friday, Dec. 19, at the Transit Plaza in downtown Monterey at 2:55 p.m.

Each day, Santa will drive a different route at different times of the day. He'll have to check in at the North Pole on Dec. 21-22, but he'll be back to drive again on Tuesday-Wednesday Dec. 23-24.

Local reaction is mixed to John Lennon's death; most acknowledge his contribution to music

By STEVE HELLMAN
TERRI LEE ROBBE
and JOANNE HODGEN

THE SHOOTING DEATH of former Beatle John Lennon has brought a mixture of reactions to the hearts of Carmel's young and old.

It was a tribute to the fallen rock idol's legacy among the youth that students at Carmel High School mourned the loss of a hero who rose to fame before they were even born.

In honor of Lennon, who was felled by an assassin's bullets outside his New York apartment Dec. 8, the flag at Carmel High School was flown at half staff last week.

Early Beatle posters depicting cherub-faced John, George, Ringo and Paul were tacked up in Buzz Rainer's classroom and in other rooms.

Scrawled on a poster on the cafeteria wall was the epitaph—Thanks John Lennon For All You Gave the World, We Are Going To Miss You—and below signed in many different hands were the titles of his best songs.

One student wore all black to school to express her sorrow for the loss of a rock musician who held a special place in youth culture as a pacifist and visionary.

Older members of the community expressed a somewhat more critical, dispassionate view of Lennon's death. While some compared its political importance to the assassination of John F. Kennedy, others complained that it was drawing much more attention than it deserved.

MUSIC CRITIC Scott MacClelland termed Lennon less of a musician than Paul McCartney, but said of the former that he was the Beatle's guru and a spiritual leader for a whole generation.

And at least one adult described the same bewildered amazement that many of her generation had felt when the Beatles first swept to the top of the music charts in the early '60s and captured teenage hearts with a rock-and-roll rush that may never again be matched.

"I don't understand all the adulation," cried a middle-aged woman who asked not to be named.

"Didn't he (Lennon) help introduce drugs to our youth?

"The shaggy hair and rock music and all those bad influences? Didn't they bring that over here?" she said in response to the thunderous rush of record-buying and tributes.

MATT BROCCHINI, a 17-year-old senior at Carmel High School, was also provoked into disturbing conclusions by the aftermath of Lennon's death, although his concern was more for acts that he felt soiled the song writer's passing.

'I don't think people should be allowed to walk around with handguns.'

Brocchini, who plays guitar, sat with a group of his friends on the lawn near Room 2 at the high school.

"I was disturbed," he said plainly, "over more than just the loss of John Lennon. The whole response of trying to find out the details instead of being truly sorry; people treated it like an event.

"He was a visionary. It's evident in more than one of his songs."

Holger Leue, a 16-year-old senior, was also troubled by the commercialization of Lennon's death.

"The entire scene about his assassin is being overplayed," he said. "And I don't think it's right for people to be storming to the record stores."

The real tragedy that has followed Lennon's death, Leue said, is that "it's become just a reason to play Beatles' albums."

Julia Kerfoot, a 17-year-old senior, unabashedly described Lennon as an idol.

"He was a pacifist," she sighed. "His death was terrible, tragic. I don't think people should be allowed to walk around with handguns."

Was she blaming the gun more than the person who pulled the trigger?

"I don't think he (the assassin) would have been as apt to kill John if he had to stab him to death," she said.

"A lot of other people are dying from handguns. It's a reflection of our society."

Miss Kerfoot and other students said they would attend a candlelight vigil at El Estero Park in Monterey to honor Lennon.

Brent Forst, a 16-year-old senior, shrugged his shoulders and called Lennon's death "just another loss of life. It didn't matter because the Beatles were already broken up."

He confided, however, that while he did not listen regularly to Lennon's music, he said, "when you do listen to his lyrics they do say a lot. It sounds like a poem."

Claire Arnal, a 17-year-old senior, clearly typified the feelings of a teen-ager who, although born after the Beatles' first Ed Sullivan television show nationwide performance, still revered their music and lives.

Ms. Arnal, who provided the poster that was hanging in Rainer's classroom, said she had been introduced to the Beatles by her older brothers and sisters. She had read all their autobiographies. She felt it was tragic that John was murdered just after he had recorded a new album and was coming out of a prolonged seclusion.

"He could have contributed so much," she said. "His death is a bad omen for the '80s. There may be no greats left."

resident and businessman.

"It was tragic because he was shot the way he was, a waste," said Johnson, who admitted that he only occasionally listened to Lennon's music.

"I'm a great proponent of gun control laws," he added.

Jeff McBreen, a 31-year-old bartender from Carmel, was concerned about the violence of Lennon's death.

"He's just another musician, he'll be missed," McBreen said, "but the death says a lot about society today, the violence, it made me look at the whole thing.

"People are murdered on the streets every day, but someone important, it makes you think about it."

Lennon's death was prophetic for America, Anita Whitaker declared.

A marriage and family counselor and resident of Carmel, Mrs. Whitaker said that although Lennon was not a hero to her, she said he was that to the whole counter-culture.

"He changed America in a great way, he helped start a counter-movement that got us out of Vietnam and helped us survive Watergate," she said.

"He was an important spokesman. I think of his death the same as I do Martin Luther King and John F. Kennedy.

"If you're brilliant you're a target."

Asked about the assassin, Mrs. Whitaker said simply: "The whimsical deed of a paranoid full of anger at who knows what."

The commercialization of Lennon's death particularly bothered Mrs. Whitaker. "It pains me," she confided, "to see that death is good fortune to someone else."

"I WAS SHOCKED and saddened.

"He of all the Beatles was the most peace-oriented," said Mary Virginia "Swan" Swanson, 27, of Carmel.

The executive assistant and workshop coordinator of the Friends of Photography in Carmel, Miss Swanson saw the Beatles in 1965 at a concert in Minneapolis.

"His expressions to the public through his songs were one of peace and hope," she said.

"It's ironic that he would be the one gunned down."

An avid Beatle fan, she said the highlight of her life was seeing the group in concert when she was 13.

"For people of our generation it was as shocking as (John) Kennedy's death," Mrs. Swanson said.

Though she observed that many people would carry on the peace movement that was personified by Lennon, Miss Swanson said "Perhaps we'll see an end to his style of music."

RICHARD HEYDT, 77, of Carmel said he was as sorry about John Lennon's death as for anyone who is shot.

However, he observed, "Rock music has all the charm and imagination of a factory whistle."

"He's getting more attention than Jack Kennedy got when he was shot."

Nell Lohr, 63, a Carmel businesswoman, said, "I'm sorry to say I'm of the age that this wasn't important. I admired the man during his lifetime.

"I don't think the uproar was deserved. There are so many more great people who have done more in the world for humanity."

Observing that youth today seek idols in show business and sports, she said there is an emphasis "so many times put into the wrong things."

Paula Morris, 32, of Carmel said she was very sorry. "He was a prodigious talent," she observed.

"It is unfortunate any human being has to be a martyr to any cause (peace). I suppose if anyone's death does any good it would be John Lennon's. It's a loss everyone feels."

MUSIC CRITIC MacClelland, who said he had followed the Beatles since their inception, said of Lennon: "He was never more than a mediocre music talent."

McCartney was the music talent in the Beatles, he said, while Lennon was their intellectual guru. He termed Harrison the loner and Ringo a clownish type.

'If you're brilliant you're a target.'

Lennon possessed a great deal of concern for social issues that none of the other Beatles paid attention to, MacClelland said.

"He gave a lot of introspection, he pondered the values in a way his colleagues never did," he said.

While McCartney was a great music talent writing intellectually silly songs like Silly Lovesong, Lennon remained a "real sparkler as far as stimulating thought about our lives," MacClelland said.

The lyrics, for example, of Lennon's song Imagine speak of a utopian idealism of a latter-day Karl Marx, MacClelland said.

"Lennon, more than the other Beatles, was a reflection of his working-class environment," he said.

It is easy to see that Lennon's music talent never lived up to the ability of McCartney, MacClelland said. On the Beatles' last album, for example, the song Let It Be has Lennon playing raucous guitar licks that do not do justice to the tune, he said.

Lennon's latest solo album, MacClelland said, is trite, but he predicted it will sell more than several million copies because of the artist's legacy and his bizarre death.

BEATLEMANIA arrived during the turbulent '60s, but unlike the passing fads and fashions of that era, it lasted.

Now, almost 20 years later, the Beatles' music is as popular as ever and has captured the hearts and minds of music lovers of all ages.

It captured a father and son from Carmel who are in the music business.

"I cried and I'm still crying," said 19-year-old Bill Hearn of Carmel, a member of the local band USS.

"It was a mind-shattering blow and affected me in a very personal way. He was 40 and I'm 19, but our minds worked alike. He made me want to go out and seek something new and never mind what other people thought."

Hearn said that it was the Beatle song Glass Onion that gave him the inspiration to start his own music career.

"I went out and bought a bass guitar to learn to play that song," said Hearn. "Just being aware of what John Lennon was accomplishing made me believe in myself."

Hearn said Lennon never received enough recognition. "He captured a lot of things that people overlooked," he said. "That's why he was overlooked. He got Beatle recognition, not "John" recognition. He wanted to be himself, not just a Beatle. He never really was a Beatle — that was struck on him and after awhile he had no choice. That's why he had to break away, and he did."

Hearn also said that Lennon was ahead of his time and that his music has a magical sound. "Every spot in my day is the Beatles," he said. "Their music, especially John's, has inspired almost every musician in one way or another."

Recalling Lennon's last interview, Hearn said: "He was asked what he most wanted to be remembered for and he replied 'to be a great peace-nik'."

"Even before your music?" asked the interviewer.

"Definitely," replied Lennon.

"John was just trying to find and give love," said Hearn. "I didn't grow up in their time, but I do know what their music is all about. It's all been said before and will be said again — but John said it best. Yes, he's dead — but his music will never die."

"JOHN LENNON was probably the greatest song writer of all times.

"I think he holds the world record in having songs published. and even with that record he still hadn't reached his prime. I think his death is a tragic loss to the whole world."

The man speaking was 50-year-old Jim Hearn of Carmel, who has been in the music business most of his life and is now business manager for his son, Bill, who has his own band, and another son with a band.

'And I don't think it's right for people to be storming to the record stores.'

"I was in the right age bracket when the Beatles first started, but I didn't really follow them at first," said the older Hearn. "My era was the big-band sound and it took me awhile to get acclimatized to the new music coming out. Looking back now I don't know how we ever put up with the old-time music."

Hearn said the Beatles changed the entire culture of the Western world. "First with their music and secondly with styles," he said. "They started the long-hair craze. John was the radical of the group and the others did what he did.

"His death is a tragic loss if for nothing more than his music. But it goes beyond that to his way of life. He set standards for a lot of people and had more influence over the public than any human that's ever been alive. Elvis Presley's influence was big, but nothing compared to John Lennon — and ironically, you're hearing this from a person who was never really a Beatle fan."

Hearn said he didn't relate to Lennon as a person, but being in the music field made him aware of Lennon's talents and his impact on people.

When asked why people of such varied ages related to Lennon, Hearn replied: "If someone could answer that question it would be worth millions of dollars. It wasn't just one thing — it was many. None of the Beatles are great singers or musicians, but they had a magic about them that will live forever. As a group they had combined chemistry — but no question about it, John Lennon stood out. He had a genius and a uniqueness that few people ever have.

"As long as there's music — John Lennon will be remembered."

HOME-OFFICE DEDUCTION

If you use one room of your home as an office, make sure that you are taking advantage of the tax break that you are entitled to. How much of your home office expenses can be taken as a business expense depends on the size of the room in relation to the rest of the house.

For example, if the house has 1,600 square feet of space and the office measures 10 x 16 feet (or 160 square feet), you are allowed 10% of the total running costs of the house's light, heat, repairs, painting, and other maintenance, depreciation, taxes and so on.

But, remember that the room must be used exclusively for business use; preferably as a main place of business, or show that the room was necessary to see clients or patients. Also, expenses cannot exceed the income earned from the business.

Also, if you have any valuable equipment in your home office, don't assume that it will be covered by your regular homeowners insurance policy. You'll need special coverage to protect against loss.

Bridge is being built over Carmel River

A BRIDGE is being built over the Carmel River about a half mile west of Garland Ranch Regional Park to serve a new home and land-locked parcels.

Monterey contractor Len Triano is building the private bridge for landowner John Randazzo.

Triano said last week that the bridge, which is reached by a dirt driveway, will serve a new home being built on a 20-acre parcel south of the river. It will also provide access to two 40-acre parcels that are landlocked, he said.

An old one-lane bridge at the south boundary of the park serves homes across the river, but Triano said access to Randazzo's property was provided by oral license only, which could be revoked at any time.

Triano said the new bridge would be completed within two weeks.

'Legislature' for seniors is planned

The kickoff of a drive to create a California "Senior Legislature" took place recently in Sacramento when a new organizing manual was presented to Gov. Brown.

The presentation was a preliminary step in organizing for the Senior Legislature, a non-partisan project intended to bring to the State Capitol next July 29-31 elected representatives of California's three million citizens 60 and older.

During the three-day model legislature, the seniors will debate and adopt "bills" which will then be presented to the state legislature with the hope of enactment.

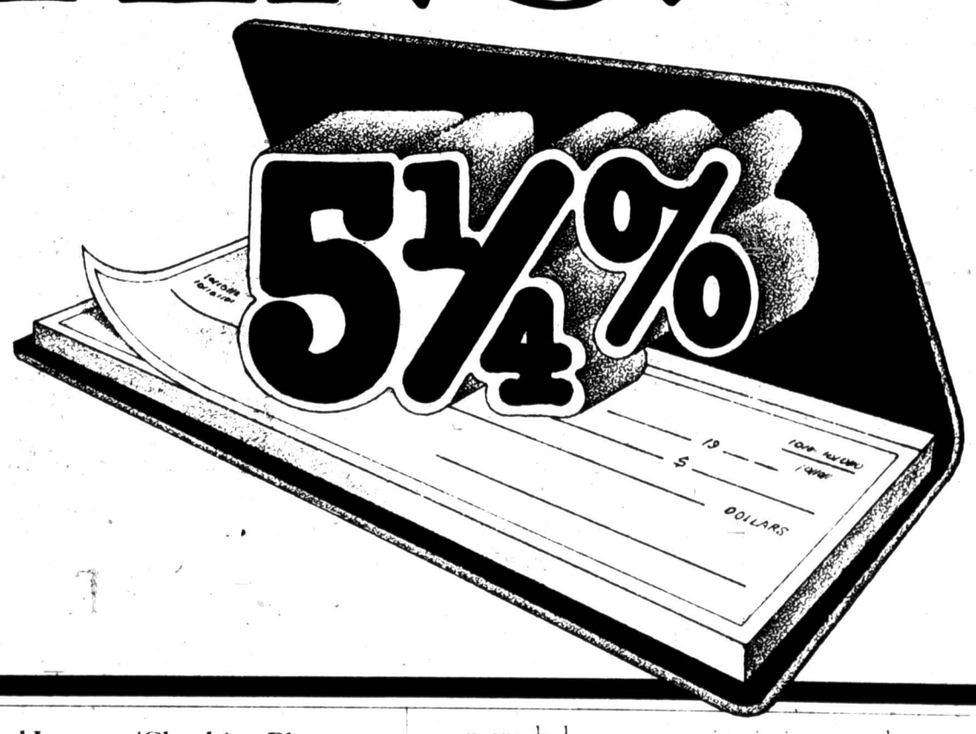
Piccadilly is decorated

The Piccadilly Nursery site on Dolores Street has assumed a festive air with the addition of a tall Christmas tree, Christmas lights and lots of colorful poinsettia plants.

The decorations are the work of the Carmel Lions Club working with Dolores Street merchants. The project was coordinated by the Carmel Business Association.

Much of the work was done by Lions Club President Tony Hrusa and his assistants, Glenn Crawford and Sidney Williams.

LOOKING FORWARD TO INTEREST/CHECKING?



We've got two plans available now.

Some people like to keep all their money handy in a checking account. Other people like to keep a little money in their checking account and a lot of money in their savings account.

But almost everybody is looking forward to earning interest on the same money they use to write checks. So we've got two plans.

Our Premier Interest/Checking Plan is free of monthly service charges with $1000 minimum.

Maintain a $1000 minimum balance in this plan, and you can have an Interest/Checking plan free of monthly service charges. You'll earn 5¼% annual interest on the same money you use to write checks.

Our Grand Interest/Checking Plan is free of monthly service charges with $1000 minimum.

Keep $1000 or more in your qualifying savings or time deposit account. You qualify for an Interest/Checking plan, free of monthly service charges paying 5¼% annual interest on any balance you maintain in your plan.

We've got two plans because people are different. But we've got one minimum that everybody can agree on. Our $1000 minimum is a lot less than a lot of financial institutions. And no bank or savings and loan pays a higher rate of interest.

With either plan, you can apply for a Combined Check and Charge Card (MasterCard™ or Visa®)/Ready Reserv-Account and Check Guarantee Card. And you can get either plan at any one of our over 590 offices all over California.

Right now, today, you can be earning interest on the same money you use to write checks. Come to Security Pacific Bank. We've got two different plans and one wonderful minimum. Because we're looking forward to serving people better.

RAINY CHRISTMASES

It rains almost every Christmas in Carmel. Even as far back as 1915, the Pine Cone of that day tells how it rained while the residents joined to sing Christmas carols.

And how did these oldtimers celebrate Christmas?

Here's what the first Christmas issue of the Pine Cone in 1915 said:

"Christmas in Carmel? What does it signify? In what manner does it differ from Christmas spent in any other place?

"There are those who come here, to whom Christmas would not be Christmas without Carmel. Whatever the psychological or other reasons, we do know that the Christmas season here has a charm all its own.

"A feature of this year's celebration was the pilgrimage about town of a little band of sweet-voiced singers rendering carols on Christmas Eve."

GOLDEN BOUGH GETS NEW NAME

When the Golden Bough is reopened on New Year's day it will be known as the Carmel Theater.

Out of more than one thousand names sent in by 125 local residents, the three judges, after hours of debating last Thursday, decided on the name "Carmel."

The traffic signal system at the intersection of Ocean Avenue and Highway 1 opposite the High School is about to be built. The Division of Highways is publishing a notice to contractors asking for bids on the installation of the traffic signal system and highway lighting.

This is the end of a long struggle to provide a traffic light at this strategic intersection.

SCHOOL OF DRAMA COMES TO CARMEL

That Carmel has not lost its old charm for creative people has been evidenced again this week by the arrival as permanent residents of the impresarios of the Perry-Mansfield School of Drama and Dance.

CARMEL GAS STATIONS FACE REMOVAL

Two of Carmel's ten gas stations will be phased out in the next ten years if the city council adopts an ordinance at their January meeting.

The city fathers took the long-expected first step in this direction at last week's council meeting when they held a public hearing and approved a first reading of the controversial issue.

The two service stations scheduled for eventual removal are the Chevron station on the corner of Ocean and San Carlos and the Shell station on San Carlos and Seventh.

Two new supervisors will fin

By STEVE HELLMAN

TROUBLED WATERS will surround the swearing in of the two new members to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Jan. 6, William G. Peters and Marc Del Piero.

Peters, of Carmel Valley, will step into the Fifth District seat with a lawsuit hanging over his head that could spoil his term of office.

A civil lawsuit was filed against him by District Attorney William Curtis only days before the Nov. 4 election, charging that Peters willfully failed to properly disclose his financial involvement in a real estate deal while he was a member of the county Planning Commission.

Curtis is scheduled to take a deposition from Peters Dec. 23. A trial could follow that.

Although a settlement against Peters would not require his resignation from the board, the civil suit opens the possibility of criminal charges being filed, which could be a direct threat to his tenure.

The legal waters were not expected to settle before the Jan. 6 swearing in.

DEL PIERO, of Watsonville, will assume the First District seat, at 27 the youngest supervisor ever for the county and also the new board's only Republican.

While the board conducts its work in a non-partisan fashion, Del Piero views himself as the odd-man-out on a board with at least two active Democrats.

His age is notable not so much for the record it sets, as for the fact that the man he is replacing, retired Judge Kenneth Blohm, is more than twice Del Piero's age and nearly as far apart on some land-use philosophies.

Peters and Del Piero both are considered more conservation-minded on land-use issues than the two supervisors they replace, and their addition to the board could mean not only a difficult transition but also an outright shift in philosophy.

Both have voting records on the county Planning Commission that have often gone against large controversial projects: Peters replaces Sam Farr, who was considered middle of the road on development, and Del Piero replaces Blohm, who was a consistent champion of private property rights.

'Being the only Republican, I'm the odd man out.'

Their combined nine years' experience on the commission — six for Peters and three for Del Piero — brings a pair with unprecedented land planning expertise to the board, and also at least one sticky question.

Because the two commissioners presided over specific projects that will also be reviewed by the supervisors, there is a question whether it is appropriate for them to wear both hats.

COUNTY COUNSEL Ralph Kuchler has ruled that Peters and Del Piero should be allowed to preside as supervisors over matters they reviewed as planning commissioners, but at least one veteran supervisor staunchly opposed Kuchler's ruling and predicts a showdown over the matter.

A smoothing out of this jurisdictional policy question will have to come in the early days of the new board; soon after the first of the year the board is scheduled to review the county's major land planning documents for Big Sur, North County, the Carmel unincorporated area and Carmel Valley.

The Local Coastal Plans (LCP) for Big Sur, North County and the Carmel Area are currently under the commission's review and will be forwarded soon to the supervisors for final approval.

Final adoption of the new Carmel Valley Master Plan is awaiting completion of an Environmental Impact Report for it; the draft EIR has been completed and will soon be released for review.

THE FRESHMAN supervisors both contended during interviews last week that their land-planning expertise will be an invaluable asset to the board, especially in hammering out final approval of the LCPs and Master Plan and sifting through the flood of development applications that will follow.

Peters and Del Piero noted that none of the present supervisors has Planning Commission experience, while they served togther on the commission's subcommittee on the LCPs; Peters also served as the liaison to the citizens' committee that prepared the new Carmel Valley Master Plan, as well as being the county's prime mover for it.

The two new supervisors went so far in appraising their land-planning value to the new board that they maintained it will help stem the tide of lawsuits that have been filed against the past board over some of its biggest land-use decisions.

The board's approval of the Carmel Valley Ranch development, proposed Rancho Canada Lodge and its adoption of the Master Plan have all been challenged in court; the suit against the Carmel Valley Ranch was dismissed, but it is on appeal and it prompted the supervisors to begin a major revision of the county General Plan. The supervisors' approval of the Master Plan last year was overturned in May on the basis an EIR was needed. A decision on the Rancho Canada lawsuit is expected from Superior Court Judge Richard Silver this week.

THE THREE current supervisors acknowledged in interviews last week that they welcome the land-use experience of the two new members.

The three supervisors — Barbara Shipnuck, Dusan Petrovic and Michal Moore also unanimously predicted the new board will work well together after an initial shakedown period, although they stopped short of saying how well and each expressed some particular reservation.

The veteran supervisors were unequivocably concerned about the dark legal cloud hanging over Peters' head.

'They differ in many ways from the two they replace.'

If any one thing could spoil a fresh start for the new board, it is the lawsuit and its ramifications for Peters, they agreed.

The civil suit, which was filed Oct. 22 in Superior Court, seeks penalties totalling $95,988 for a real estate deal in the Valley and also accuses Peters of failing to report a free membership in the Carmel Valley Tennis Club.

Curtis said last week he expects Peters to file an answer to the suit after the Dec. 23 deposition.

Asked whether he thought the case will go to trial, Curtis declined comment; he said only that his office has two sets of disclosure statements from Peters that were signed under penalty of perjury, a felony if violated.

Did the seriousness of the case indicate that a grand jury investigation could be imminent?

Curtis refused to answer, declaring that any question of a grand jury investigation should be directed to presiding Superior Court Judge Silver or the jury's foreman, Phillip Nash. When contacted, Silver refused to comment. Nash was unavailable.

Peters said he was not aware of a grand jury investigation. Asked if the civil suit could hurt him as a supervisor, Peters said no.

"I don't think it's going to be settled against me," he said.

Is a difficult transition in store for the new board?

"There are some clear personality differences," he replied, "but I think it's going to go just fine."

He added that he considers himself a conservative on fiscal matters, which would conform with the current board.

PETERS, an educator, was appointed to the Planning Commission in 1975.

He said his six years' experience on the commission will be a definite benefit to the board. His experience should help the board avoid further lawsuits on land planning issues, he said.

"I DON'T THINK you can avoid lawsuits if people want to file them," said Supervisor Shipnuck of Salinas.

While Mrs. Shipnuck said she acknowledges the Planning Commission experience of both Peters and Del Piero, she noted that Peters' vote would not have made a difference in the projects that prompted two of the lawsuits.

Peters lobbied heavily against an EIR for the Master Plan, she noted, and while he voted as a commissioner against the proposed 175-room Rancho Canada Lodge, so did Farr, so that in both cases his vote on the board would not have changed the outcome.

Mrs. Shipnuck, a staunch Democrat, said Del Piero's GOP affiliation would not affect the board.

"The board's never been involved in party politics," she insisted.

Would Peters and Del Piero bring a philosophical shift on land planning to the board?

Mrs. Shipnuck noted that the two as commissioners had not always agreed, and therefore do not necessarily represent a certain bloc of interests. She added that while the past board members had disagreed on specific projects, they had agreed on policy.

And while she noted a shakedown of personalities and philosophy is inevitable in the beginning, Mrs. Shipnuck said she would withhold any political evaluation of the new sueprvisors until she sees how Peters and Del Piero vote on social programs and fiscal issues.

The civil lawsuit against Peters has already affected his credibility with the public, she said. If a court were to settle

HOW TO FIND FASHION IN DAYTIME DRESSES WITHOUT A ROAD MAP

There's a new boutique, Bellissima! that's worth discovering.

Worth it if you agree with us that it's fashinable again to wear a dress before sunset. The emphasis is on silks, light wools and knits — fabrics and fashion that you'll love having in your wardrobe year after year.

Pretty blouses, too. A few choice suits and imported hand-knit sweaters.

But you may have to search for us.

Walk north on the west side of San Carlos. Just past Sixth, turn left down the brick walkway beside the Connoisseur Gallery.

A few steps and you've made a find.

against Peters, Mrs. Shipnuck said it would taint his Planning Commisison decisions.

Because Peters presided over matters on the commission that are coming up before the supervisors, a settlement against him could complicate his authority on the board, she said. but would not require his resignation.

Peters would be forced to resign, she added, if criminal charges are filed against him and he is convicted.

"WE BETTER pull together, there's no other way," said Supervisor Petrovic of King City.

Petrovic said he expected cooperation on the new board, but he expressed one major reservation.

Often considered the wild card vote on the board, Petrovic said he disagreed with the county counsel's opinion that Peters and Del Piero could preside over matters that came under their authority as commissioners, especially decisions that come to the board on appeal.

Otherwise, Petrovic said, their experience on the commission is a plus. He said, "None of us sees planning issues in as much detail as the Planning Commission."

'We'll see a little bit more maneuvering.'

Asked if Peters and Del Piero would bring an expertise or philosophical shift that will help the board avoid land-planning lawsuits, Petrovic replied, "They differ in many ways from the two they replace." He declined to elaborate.

Petrovic refused to comment on the civil suit against Peters, except to say: "He has been elected a representative of the district. As long as the people support him I'll treat him as an equal."

CHAIRMAN MOORE, of Monterey, was the most optimistic about the new board.

He said the two incoming supervisors would energize it and bring enough experience in the political sphere to not disrupt its work. He also disclaimed any problem with Del Piero's party tie.

Moore was concerned, however, with what he termed "hidden agendas" on the new board.

"The new board is going to be more politically motivated," he said. "We'll see a little bit more maneuvering."

The presence of Peters and Del Piero should help change what Moore termed "a legacy of land use decisions that got us into trouble in the past."

Asked about the effect of the civil suit against Peters, Moore said, "He's a board colleague and should be treated as such."

A court settlement against him would make no difference?

"All that's out of our control," Moore replied. "Whatever problems he (Peters) has personally, they're his problems, not mine."

DEL PIERO, a lawyer who was accepted by the state Bar Association this year, referred to his and Peters' experience on the Planning Commission as the most important factor in the new board.

"The level of expertise will be greatly increased," he said, "and hopefully enough to resolve the legal issues."

Where he said the old board got sued regularly, Del Piero insisted the new board's decisions will be scrutinized to stand the judicial test.

Would the new board be more constrained in granting approval for controversial land-use projects?

Del Piero replied that his predecessor, Blohm, had been a staunch defender of private property rights, while he (Del Piero) would come to the board with more of a slant toward strict interpretation of local and state land-use restrictions.

He added, however, that he and Peters will probably have to temper their votes to conform with the supervisors top-level positions in land-use decisions.

While the Planning Commission often opposes projects because it follows the strict letter of the law, he said its decisions are often not politically acceptable to the board.

"The Planning Commission administers the law, the board administers equity," he said.

The board's problem, he added, is that it has gone too far in administering equity and made itself vulnerable to lawsuits.

Del Piero said he and Peters had learned how to work together on disagreements, but. there could be some initial problems in getting along with the other supervisors.

"The board has a lot more partisan politics than is apparent," he said. "Being the only Republican, I'm the odd man out."

Did he plan to continue in politics or stay with a law career?

"Ask me in four years after my first term as supervisor."

Only 6 shopping days left, but Carmel is busy enough

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

THE SCRAMBLE is on!

And with only six shopping days left, the village has taken on a special glow. Caroling, Christmas plays and last-minute galas seem to have put everyone in a happy, holiday mood. And some good news for the women is that jewelers and furriers say that busienss has never been better. Must mean that the jolly old fellow in the red suit is going to stuff a few stockings with some delightful surprises.

The social scene is moving at the speed of light — twinkling Christmas trees, elegant dress, romantic dance music, heavily laden buffet tables and sounds of laughter.

Happiness is Christmas in Carmel!

ROTARY PARTY

Not to be forgotten in the long list of holiday parties is the Carmel Rotary Club's annual Christmas gala held at the Beach and Tennis Club Dec. 10.

About 100 Rotary members and their wives or dates attended the affair, which featured a beautiful red and green Christmas theme.

The no-host cocktail hour was followed by a sumptuous buffet with entrees of leg of lamb and sirloin tip.

After dinner, most everyone took to the dance floor to jiggle the calories around and do a few high steps to the sounds of the Jo Tick Combo.

Making sure that the party was a smash success were Russ Harris and Bud Allen and their committees.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

Christmas cheer filled the air of Herrmann Hall at the Naval Postgraduate School last Sunday evening when about 250 guests arrived for the annual Christmas party.

This year's gala was hosted by Rear Adm. and Mrs. John J. Ekelund.

Decorations included a huge Christmas tree and tables graced with red tablecloths, poinsettias and red candles in anchor candleholders.

A cheery fire burned in the fireplace as guests exchanged toasts from the wassail bowl and feasted on a variety of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, fruit bowls, cheese boards and fruitcake.

Carmelites attending the informal get-together included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Haber, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holmes, Mayor Barney and Elinor Laiolo and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durein.

A NEW VENTURE

Take a Silver Cloud Rolls Royce called J.B., a Piper Turbo Dakota called Longflight II and a salmon troller called Longflight I and it all adds up to a wild Sunday of crashing champagne bottles, delicious food, flowers and confetti — and — gentlemen, start your engines!

Once upon a time (recently) Dorothy Long decided to start a new business called Longfleet Leasing. She bought a car, a boat and an airplane and made plans for the most unusual christening reception on record. She sent out 150 invitations and the big event took place last Sunday, beginning at the Monterey airport — and moving on to Cerrito's Neptune's Table at Fisherman's Wharf.

The airplane was presented first. And after it was blessed by the Rev. Wayne Adams, guests were invited to pin a flower (one of three they were asked to bring) to the huge green ribbon tied wing-to-wing across the nose of the plane — then came the crash of the champagne bottle followed by the traditional engine starting.

The same festivities were carried out for the Rolls, which was parked next to the plane. Then it was off to the wharf for a rerun and tossing flowers and confetti aboard the boat, which was christened by 11-year-old Lisa Davi.

Then with business out of the way, guests were invited to enjoy champagne and a fabulous buffet including salmon, crabmeat, shrimp, artichoke hearts, chicken, finger sandwiches, stuffed mushrooms, fruit and cheeses and a huge cake decorated with, what else — a Rolls, airplane and a boat!

Next on the agenda was a fashion show under the direction of Geneva Cranford — a talented woman who has flown in the Powder Puff Derby and is also a member of the Ninty Nine Club — a women's flying club started by Amelia Earhart. Geneva enlisted the help of members of the Monterey Bay chapter of Ninty Nine — and presented the old and new in flying and boating fashions.

Carmelites taking part in the festivities included Mayor Barney and Elinor Laiolo (Barney gave a short speech at the beginning of the affair); Bud Allen, who donated a dinner for two at his LaPlaya Hotel (one of the many door prizes); Jack Wall, Squire Hurst, Mrs. Peggy Arnold, Sandra Matoff, Luis Wolter and Karen Robinson.

Forgot to tell you — the Rolls comes with a chauffeur, the plane with a pilot and the boat with a captain.

NEW ARRIVAL

Congratulations to Timothy and Nancy Connell of Carmel on the birth of their daughter, Courtney Roberts.

Baby Courtney was born at Community Hospital Oct. 21.

AMBASSADOR VISITS

Never a dull moment at the Carmel home of Don and Maggie Hays!

For instance — Maggie had decided to forego cooking Thanksgiving dinner — but when the big day arrived she had nine people at the table.

Special guests were John Holdridge, recent ambassador to Singapore (who has a new assignment in Washington), and his daughter and granddaughter.

The Hays were Holdridge's houseguests in Singapore a few years ago and, during their visit, they also met George and Barbara Bush.

Others spending the holiday in Carmel were the Hays' son, Curt, and his bride, Fay, and daughter Valerie and her date, Bill Farmsworth. Don Jr. couldn't make it to Carmel so he

ART SHOW AND PARTY

There was a double celebration at the Taj Gallery on Mission Street last Saturday evening.

To begin with, it was Taj's regular monthly gala — and secondly, there was a two-person art show of the works of Mary Crafton and Nader Rahimzadeh.

During the evening about 350 patrons, friends and well-wishers dropped by to view the artists' work while sipping on Taj's lethal punch and munching such good things as caviar and a variety of canapes.

Mary prefers to call her work sophisticated early American, but "it's really primitives — folk art," she said. "I study historical places such as New England and also here on the Peninsula and then paint them in the proper time setting."

She also does folk art portraits — depicting scenes of people in their homes.

Mary, who lived in Southern California for 10 years, has had one-woman shows in Beverly Hills and had an exhibit of her work at Zantman Art Galleries in Carmel last December. She moved to Carmel with her husband, Tim, Dec. 9.

Nader, originally from Iran, has lived in Carmel since 1975. Two of his paintings were at the recent Monterey Fair, one winning a prize. This is his first professional showing and he was pleased with the positive comments on his works. He works with oils, acrylics, watercolors, lithographs and silk screening. He also dabbles in sculpturing, leather work and taxidermy, which he says is an art unto itself.

Nader and his wife, Debbie, as well as Mary and Tim were present to welcome guests, including Ann Werner, a lawyer who drove down from Stockton to attend the showing.

Also attending the show was Judith Siehm, who teaches dance at Transitions Health Studio, and Marsha Church, who works for Monterey Municipal Court, and her husband, Tad, a vocational counselor for CETA.

Norman Colman, employment program supervisor for CETA, was there with Laurie Wishard, who recently wrote a book with her father, Bill Wishard, titled Men's Rights — Handbook for the '80s. The book, published in October, is about men's legal rights.

Taj also welcomed his brother, Touraj, who is visiting from San Francisco. His mother, Nabat Abidi, was also there.

Special guest of the evening was Taj's niece, Natalie Tehrani, who was celebrating her 10th birthday. It was long past midnight, but this little Cinderella was the belle of the ball with two birthday cakes and a special gift from her 9-year-old friend, Emily Katsafanas of Pebble Beach, who also stayed up past her bedtime.

Taj's parties are well known to Carmelites, so needless to say a good time was had by all!

Pianist returns from concert tour to Spain

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

GILBERT BOYER, a Carmel resident for 25 years until his recent move to Pacific Grove, has just returned home after a 17-day concert tour in Spain.

He gave three piano concerts in the Auditorio in Palma de Mallorca on the island of Mallorca.

"Mallorca is an island off the coast of Barcelona and has about 100 towns and cities on it and is the birthplace of some outstanding composers, including Lorenzo Borras de Riquer," said Boyer, who played some of Riquer's works during his concert.

Gilbert Boyer

After Boyer's first concert, Riquer went backstage to congratulate him and invited him to stay at his home. During the visit, Riquer played one of his compositions for Boyer.

"His style is so romantic," said Boyer. "It would be nice if he could come to Carmel and write a work that could be performed at the annual Father Junipero Serra anniversary celebration."

Boyer said that Harold Greenberg, a music critic in Mallorca, is working with the group which will be coming to Carmel for the big celebration exchange.

The recent concert marked the fifth that Boyer has given in Spain. Previously, during European tours, Boyer played several concerts in Mallorca, including one in the Valldemossa Monastery where Chopin composed his famous Preludes for Piano.

His audience consisted of a royal group of 18 including Prince Juan Carlos of Spain, now king of Spain, Princess Sofia and Constantine and Marie, the ex-king and queen of Greece.

"It's such a beautiful area," said Boyer. "The climate is perfect and the people very friendly. Both my wife and I speak Spanish so we communicated very well."

Also attending Boyer's recent concert was Margarita Ferra, director of the Frederick Chopin Institute.

"She told me about her recent visit to Chopin's birthplace in Poland and the big Chopin International Piano Festival which takes place every five years," said Boyer. "The event took place just a few months ago with 155 outstanding young concert pianists throughout the world participating."

While traveling by train to Barcelona to arrange his concerts, Boyer quite accidentally met Dr. Tibor Bachmann. "We spent the afternoon together and I discovered that he is the executive secretary of the Bela Bartok Society of America and is getting ready to publish a new book on Bartok," said Boyer.

"He is a close friend of Bartok and suggested that I might be interested in starting a branch of the Bartok Society in Carmel if the people are interested," said Boyer.

BOYER'S activities on the Monterey Peninsula have contributed to the enjoyment of musical circles in many ways.

He founded the original chamber music society which has become the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society, has given concerts at Sunset Center, presented a series of "piano portraits" at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art and has been twice artist-in-residence during summer series at Monterey Peninsula College, presenting at one time a series of four concerts and lectures on the works of Debussy and at another time a series of 15 programs, playing the works of many composers, but with a special emphasis on the complete piano works of Ravel.

Among the teachers with whom Boyer studied after his graduation from the New England Conservatory of Music was Paul Doguereau, a friend and associate of Ravel, who passed on his first-hand knowledge of Ravel's piano works to Boyer. He also studied in Brazil with Guiomar Novaes, the renowned Brazilian pianist who first awakened his interest in and love of Latin-American music.

Later, Boyer worked for six years with the eminent Dutch pianist Egon Petri.

Last spring Mr. and Mrs. Boyer made a tour of the Orient which was launched by a series of three concerts in the American School in Japan.

Boyer's plans include returning to Spain to play in Madrid and other cities.

Boyer has a studio in Carmel and also teaches at the Monterey Peninsula Community School of Music.

2nd paycheck may cause woe

WHOEVER SAID two can live as cheaply as one obviously did not foresee the two-paycheck marriage.

With an estimated 60 percent of married women working outside the home, two-income families are often caught off guard when their larger combined income increases their expenses — including taxes — and erodes some of the anticipated benefits.

One of the biggest problems affecting the two-paycheck family is the increased tax bite, according to the California Society of CPAs. The second paycheck is piled on top of the existing one, then taxed at the higher rate on the combined income. For instance, John Black is a college professor at a university in northern California. He was the sole wage earner while his children were young. In 1978 his income was $30,000. Then, in 1979, his wife Nancy obtained a part-time job earning $8,000. John, meanwhile, got a $2,000 raise. Their increased income precipitated additional expenses which consumed most of their additional $10,000 income.

Worse yet, John and Nancy had neglected to adjust their withholding tax from weekly paychecks to compensate for their higher tax bracket. John's withholding assumed a maximum tax rate of 32 percent, while Nancy's withholding was based on a maximum of 16 percent. But when they filed a joint income tax return, Nancy's income added to John's was taxed at the 32 percent margin from the first dollar and went up from there.

Actually, Nancy's income and John's raise brought their combined income into the 43 percent marginal tax bracket. If they had planned ahead, their withholding would have reflected that. As an alternative, they could have laid aside additional money to cover the tax bill, CPAs say. But John and Nancy ended up borrowing to pay the additional $2,000 tax bill they had not anticipated.

JOHN AND NANCY would not have saved money filing separate federal tax returns. As married taxpayers filing separately, their tax "rate" would be higher than that of two single taxpayers. According to CPAs, it is seldom economical for married people to file separate returns except when there have been unusually large expenses such as medical bills. In that case, the partner with the lower income might take fuller advantage of the three percent exclusion on medical deductions.

Besides the higher tax bill, two-income families often increase spending for child care, commuting, clothing and food. With two incomes, there is twice the need for sound financial planning, CPAs say.

Two-paycheck families also need to adjust their retirement planning. Perhaps one will delay retirement to allow the other to continue working. Both spouses need to consider their Social Security benefits, which are likely to be based on each one's lifetime earnings. Childless couples with two incomes may be able to acquire more appreciating assets at an earlier age. In that case, wise investment planning is called for.

Before you decide to become a two-paycheck family, CPAs advise that you draw up a financial plan to be certain you come out ahead. If the spouse returning to the work force can command only a modest income at the start, there may be need for economies in the family budget while the second wage earner is building a career.

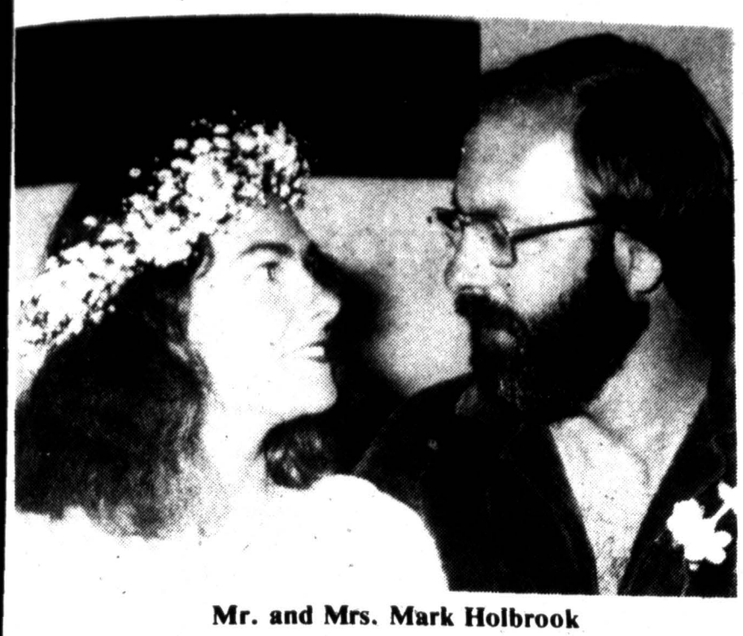
In the 1970's, the number of active physicians in the United States increased at a rate that outpaced population growth.



Mr. and Mrs. Mark Holbrook

JoAnn Fehring is married

JoAnn Fehring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted T. Fehring of Carmel, and Mark Holbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holbrook of Renton, Wash., were united in marriage Nov. 22.

The candlelight ceremony was held at Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, with the Rev. James Clark Brown officiating.

The bride wore a handwoven, ivory, cotton caftan. Her maid of honor, Carol Jane Fehring of San Mateo, wore a long yellow gown.

Best man was Bruce Britton of Carmel.

Ringbearer was Douglas Roberts of Santa Cruz and ushers were Jeffrey Holbrook, Michael Cox and John Chappell.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Carmel High School. She graduated from California State University in Chico in 1976 and is a teacher at Bay School and also works at Carmel Press.

The bridegroom graduated from Carmel High School in 1968. He served with the Marines and is now a builder.

The couple composed their own wedding ceremony.

Debbie Davini, niece of the bride, sang. During the singing, the couple lit a candle and exchanged rings. The bride's ring had belonged to her mother.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the church hall.

The bride's sisters attending the wedding were Janet Fehring of Poona, India, Mrs. Richard Oakley of Yuba City, Mrs. Gordon Roberts of Santa Cruz and Mrs. Jeffrey Almquist of Felton.

Members of the bridegroom's family attending were Mrs. Wayne Painter of Miles City, Mont., Jeffrey Holbrook of Carmel, and Mrs. Shone Risdon of Carmel Valley.

Firewood

River debris cleared

FREE EUCALYPTUS firewood was hauled out of the Carmel River bed last weekend in a snag-removal operation sponsored by the California Conservation Corps and Carmel River Watch (CREW).

The CCC chainsawed several large trees into rounds in a stretch of the river above Schulte Road Bridge.

CREW coordinated the work of splitting and hauling the wood out of the river bed.

More than 100 persons showed up on Saturday and Sunday to take away as much firewood as they could carry, according to CREW spokesperson Darby Worth.

Another clean-up is planned for Dec. 20 and 21. Volunteers can meet at 9 a.m. at Carmelo School or Schulte Road bridge.

Mrs. Worth said the clean-up will help remove snags that are a danger during winter high water; the snags can lodge against the bank, divert the stream and cause large areas of land or a bridge to be washed out, she noted.

A cat and four-wheel drive vehicles assisted in lifting the wood out of the sandy river bottom.

The volunteers who came for firewood included a woman from San Jose.

Persons interested in hauling out firewood this weekend are advised to bring sledgehammers, wedges and chainsaws, Mrs. Worth said.

Much of the wood is in rounds too large to lift without splitting them first, she noted.

Bank dividend

Directors of Northern California Savings and Loan Association have again declared a quarterly cash dividend of 17½ cents per share on the association's outstanding common stock.

The dividend will be distributed Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

Is A Problem Drinker Destroying Your Marriage?

• Read Every Word

If a problem drinker is hurting you, you can be sure he's hurting himself too – or herself. Alcoholism does not respect sex, age or color. How long can you go on? If you're ready to do something about it, remember this . . . you can help the alcoholic even if he or she doesn't want help.

• What Not to Do

Don't accuse – he or she will never admit to drinking too much. Don't try to reason with the problem drinker. Alcohol abusers are seriously ill, and the illness affects the mind as well as the body.

• What You Can Do

The best thing (and really the only thing) you can do for problem drinkers is to get them to professional help. Fast. The CareUnit Program in your local hospital offers a unique program that works. Given the right environment and an effective treatment program, alcoholism is a treatable disease. We prove it every day. In a few weeks, the problem drinker can look forward to resuming a useful and productive place in society. And you can look forward to a happy, normal life once again.

• How to Begin

Begin by calling your local CareUnit immediately, and talk to a staff counselor. You alone can help the alcoholic. Call now and make an appointment to see a counselor. You needn't be hurt again.

New assemblyman

Sam Farr is getting his feet wet in Sacramento's political waters

By STEVE HELLMAN

ASSEMBLYMAN SAM FARR, D-Carmel, slumped into a seat at Paolina's Restaurant on San Carlos Street and breathed a sigh of relief.

The newly-elected 28th District state assemblyman was tired, but glad to be back in Carmel after his first week in Sacramento.

Sworn in Dec. 1 after winning a hard-fought partisan election in November, Farr has energetically greeted the job he long thirsted for. He immediately set up his Sacramento office, and submitted his first piece of legislation — a measure to limit the number of bills in the Assembly — in what Farr plans as a comprehensive revision of the legislative process.

Before coming home for a week-long recess, he also co-authored a measure to abolish the state inheritance and gift tax, a promise he had made in his campaign.

Sam Farr

The junior assemblyman's ambitious first week in the state capital was also jammed with the politically-explosive speakership battle which saw Farr cast his vote for the loser, Howard Berman, D-Los Angeles, and come home much wiser about the political power plays at the state level.

Farr's normally affable face and calm demeanor that had marked his years as a Monterey County Supervisor showed the strain of new and larger commitments as he downed a cup of Paolina's coffee before an hour-long interview. The discussion ranged from his accomplishments as supervisor for five years to his future in politics and an assessment of two of the state's most important Democratic figures — Gov. Jerry Brown and Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, D-San Francisco.

WHILE FARR said he was troubled by the unprecedented deal that Willie Brown has struck with Assembly Republicans to capture the speakership, he insisted it would not compromise the Democratic majority and its major legislative policies on farm labor, education and finances.

Farr outlined a set of priorities for himself. He wants to lift many of the state restrictions on local school boards, clarify the public initiative process to make it less prone to errors and resume a revision of the state Constitution that he began almost 10 years ago as chief consultant to the Assembly Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Protection of agriculture is also one of his priorities; he has already asked to be appointed to the Agriculture Committee.

IF HIS OPENING moves and long-term goals ring of the over-ambitious junior assemblyman, Farr has the credentials to achieve his goals in Sacramento.

He was an assistant to legislative analyst A. Alan Post from 1969-71. While he was chief consultant to the Assembly Constitutional Amendments Committee from 1971-75, he wrote more than 300 bills and had little problem finding legislators to carry them, he said, including one that eliminated sexist language in the Constitution.

A NATIVE OF CARMEL, Farr is the son of former state Sen. Fred Farr. The younger Farr was appointed to the county Board of Supervisors in 1975 by Gov. Brown, and won re-election in 1976.

He won a tough battle in the Assembly race this year against Ann Welchner of Carmel, who was aided by the nationwide Republican tide. And Farr was also victorious despite some problems in his own backyard.

His election bid was largely successful in more liberal Santa Cruz County, but it was hampered in Monterey County where his conservative opponent outdistanced him by a 2-1 margin in Carmel and Carmel Valley precincts. While Mrs. Welchner benefited from a larger Republican voter roll here, Farr was also hurt by his legacy of land-planning decisions in Carmel Valley.

'I'm not thinking now of anything more than being an effective assemblyman for an area I love.'

HE ACKNOWLEDGED during the interview last week that his critics have often characterized him as being soft on large developments, namely the Carmel Valley Ranch, but Farr insisted that his record shows him to be a strong guardian of the environment.

In his last term as supervisor, Farr noted, he helped the county wrestle with its most difficult and politically-sensitive land planning documents in history — the Big Sur Local Coastal Plan, the Carmel Area LCP and the new Carmel Valley Master Plan.

Final approval of the LCPs is still pending, and adoption of the Carmel Valley Master Plan has been delayed by preparation of an Environmental Impact Report for it. But Farr said that the groundwork to ensure protection of the county's natural resources was still laid during his term.

If his critics accused Farr of supporting large land developments because of political goals, he charged that the critics are wrong because they have misjudged his political ambitions.

Asked if he will follow Gov. Brown on his expected bid for the presidency in 1984, Farr stated flatly, "I'm not thinking now of anything more than being an effective assemblyman for an area I love."

The first order of business for the Assembly when it reconvenes once more before the holidays is to confront the ramifications of Willie Brown's deal with the Republicans, Farr noted.

In return for the Republican vote that won him the speakership, Brown agreed to relinquish the speaker's traditional job of assigning bills to committee. The bipartisan Rules Committee will now assigns the bills, a process that is key to a measure's success since it can be assigned to a favorable committee or sent to its death in another.

The method by which the Rules Committee will carry out that all-important task is not yet determined, and it was to be discussed at a public hearing Dec. 16, Farr said.

Brown's deal also allows Assemblyman Carol Hallett, R-Atascadero as minority leader, to appoint minority party representatives to each committee.

The unprecedented deal that Brown struck with the Republicans to capture the speakership concerns Farr, but he down-played its importance. He contended it did not injure the Democrats' power in the Assembly as much as it compromised long-standing rules of honor.

His main worry, Farr said, is that Brown's tactic to win the seat for himself over Howard Berman had led at least two Democrats to switch their vote after they had been pledged. He noted that Assemblymen Richard Alatorre and Art Torres, both Los Angeles Democrats, had pledged their votes to Berman, then switched to Brown in the 11th-hour deal.

"Votes for the speaker have always been pledged beforehand, and not switched like we saw," said Farr, who

'It's the untold story, the new faces that I helped bring into government that are my major legacy.'

added that his vote had been pledged to Berman after former Speaker Leo McCarthy pulled out of the race.

The consternation among Democrats that was caused by Brown's deal and the switching of votes will hopefully be healed, Farr said.

"Everyone wants it (Brown's deal) to work, especially if it works to make the legislature function better," he said.

The possibility remains, however, that the Assembly will be pitched back into a speakership battle like the one earlier this year that saw the Democrats openly and evenly split over Berman and McCarthy.

Farr noted that the speaker normally holds the office for the duration of the two-year session, but another speakership election can be forced any time an Assembly member pulls together the necessary 41-vote majority.

"If the deal falls apart," Farr said, "instead of a new leader, I think the Assembly will be back in limbo."

Adding to the uncertainty for state Democrats is the elusive quest by Gov. Brown for the White House, Farr said.

"The entire state slipped while he was away campaigning this year," Farr bemoaned.

"If we learn anything from history, it's not to repeat that kind of absence of leadership," he said.

The state legislature was left with a year of squabbles, including the speakership battle, and with no leader to turn to, Farr said.

Gov. Brown's term is up in 1982, and Farr said he did not know what the governor planned. He said, "I heard he's uncertain whether he'll run against Hayakawa for the Senate, or bow out of policites and go on the national circuit like Reagan did. I haven't talked to him (Brown) about it." Farr added that Brown has a chance at the presidency, although with limits.

"Brown is a visionary when it comes to seeing the problems facing our country, but he's failed to implement the answers," Farr said. "He's a better philosopher than anything else."

If Jerry Brown makes it to the White House, will Farr seek a Washington post?

"No," he was emphatic, noting that his election to the Assembly was a goal that he had set two years ago and one that he was not looking beyond.

FARR SAID his main thrust in the Assembly will be that of a voice calling for a consolidation of priorities.

"I'd like to see us get away from single-purpose bills, and move toward comprehensive reform," he said.

To that end he has authored ACR 4, under which Assembly and Senate members would be limited to introducing 20 bills each in the first year of the two-year session, and 15 bills in the second year.

His thrust against piecemeal legislation comes from Farr's experience as a consultant in the early '70s when he saw the legislature submitting a seemingly endless number of constitutional amendments to the voters, when instead it could have presented one major revision.

'Right now we're just managing chaos.'

"We can be killing more birds with one stone," he chuckled.

THE MAIN TARGET of discussion in 1981 will be schools, Farr said, and he added that education will provide the legislature a fertile opportunity for comprehensive reform.

"We need to provide permanent funding for schools, and we need to lift the restrictions on local school boards over what they can do with the money," Farr said. So instead of working with two or more bills to accomplish the change, he said one comprehensive bill could achieve it.

Is there going to be more money for schools?

Farr insisted there will not be more funding, but he said the legislature can provide more permanent funding, make the state less over-protective and allow it to be permissive to school districts to set their own guidelines for spending.

"There can be a better utilization of funds," he insisted, "instead of the roller-coaster we have now where school districts don't know from year to year how much money they're getting.

"Right now we're just managing chaos."

Duplication of work in the legislation process is really his pet peeve, Farr said.

He recalled his efforts in Monterey County to consolidate services, to remove the county government from services that could be performed in the private sector, and to create, for example, a local agency to handle water issues on a comprehensive basis. Farr was a prime mover in creating the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, which now governs all water issues from dams to wells and management of the Carmel River.

In Sacramento, Farr said he will propose that any policy committee include cost implications in its bills so that instead of passing off fiscal analysis to the Ways and Means Committee, a bill can be looked at by one committee.

The public initiative process can also be streamlined, Farr said. The public should have access to the Legislative Council for advice on initiatives to avoid legal errors and other mistakes that eventually land in the legislature's lap.

Farr cited Proposition 13 as an example of a constitutional amendment with serious flaws being approved by the public. While it was intended to relieve the property tax burden on homeowners, Farr noted that because of the way it's structured, the law is actually shifting the burden from commercial to residential property.

The law included a clause that property tax assessments be rolled back to 1975 levels, but if a property is sold, it is reassessed. Because residential property is sold more often than commercial, it is being reassessed at a quicker rate, Farr noted.

Whether or not the framers of Proposition 13 intended that kind of shift in the tax burden, Farr noted that the legislature cannot correct the situation without presenting another constitutional amendment on property tax to the voters, something that seems to be political suicide despite the facts, he said.

LOOKING BACK over his five years as a county supervisor, Farr commented, "It's not so much my accomplishments as what I left behind.

"Laws left behind can be changed. It's the untold story, the new faces that I helped bring into government that are my major legacy."

During his term, Farr said, the county made the following appointments: Richard Andrews, county administrative officer; Larry Odle, director of the Air Pollution Control District; Michael Johnson, executive director of the Local Agency Formation Commission; Dardell McFarland, social services worker; William Clark, building inspector, and Paul Angelucci, consumer affairs and ad hoc energy resources coordinator.

Real estate in area continues to sell

By JOANNE HODGEN

CARMEL AND CARMEL VALLEY real estate continues to sell despite soaring interest rates on home mortgages and a tight money market, according to spokesmen for two Carmel real estate offices.

The spokesmen said that wealthy buyers drawn to a limited and desirable housing area contribute to an apparent immunity to an economic slowdown in Carmel and the Valley.

These observations were made in the wake of an announcement by Wells Fargo Bank that it could no longer afford to loan money for 30-year mortgages of $93,750 or more when interest it pays on short-term savings are wildly fluctuating.

GREG KRAFT, office manager of Christopher Bock real estate in Carmel, said that because property here appeals to a wealthy market it is not as vulnerable to lenders.

Many sellers are getting around high interest rates by "carrying papers" or offering a large assumable loan, he said.

Carrying paper means a seller sets a lower interest rate for the buyer to pay for a limited period of time. A large or "balloon" payment is then required at the end of the term.

The term, usually three years, allows the buyer time to seek more manageable financing.

Real estate listings released Dec. 5 showed that 15 sales in Carmel and Pebble Beach closed in one week, according to Kraft.

"That indicates to me that the market isn't as dead as people say it is," he said. "We're better off than many of the surrounding areas."

Kraft estimated that homes are selling for $150,000 or more. Though the prices appear high, he said Pebble Beach, Carmel and Carmel Valley are the best investments anywhere.

Home prices in this area may exclude low- and moderate-income buyers, but Kraft said people of all ages are buying homes here. He said, "They all have a common denominator — a lot of money."

HOWARD SITTON, office manager at Lois Renk and Associates in Carmel, said the Wells Fargo decision won't make it "any easier" to buy homes.

But the tight money situation does not have a significant effect in a high-priced market where seller financing or cash buying is common, he said.

"Most high-priced property doesn't go to a lender," according to Sitton.

He agreed with Kraft that Carmel is a safe market for home buyers. "There is very little reason to fear losing on anything in Carmel. As the years go along, everything has continued to increase in value because we have only so much property," he said.

Those most severely affected, he said, are young people who want to buy their first home.

BRANCH MANAGERS at Crocker Bank in Carmel and Bank of America at the mouth of Carmel Valley said they do not expect their banks to follow Wells Fargo in curtailing loans.

William Clark, chief loan officer of Monterey Savings and Loan, said money is still being loaned at 15¼ percent at his office, but several restrictions are attached.

"We're not taking any loan applications unless they (the applicant) already have a mortgage on property through us," he said.

The second condition, he said, requires the buyer to take out a 30-year loan on a three-year basis. That means the buyer must make a balloon payment at the end of three years or seek re-financing, he said.

"Savings and loans aren't full of money," Clark said. Not many people can buy because of interest rates forced higher by government actions, according to Clark.

Neal Winkler of Crocker Bank said interst rates were 16 percent as of Dec. 5 for 30-year loans of $93,750 or less. Rates are 16¼ percent for loans up to $150,000, the loan ceiling established by Crocker Bank, he said.

Rick Abdalla of Bank of America said interest rates are currently 15¾ percent for loans of $150,000 or less, 16 percent for loans of $150,000 to $200,000 and 16¾ percent for loans of $200,000 to $250,000.

At Crocker and Bank of America the maximum loan is 80 percent of the appraised value of the property. A two-percent loan origination fee and a $150 application fee must also be paid.

Abdalla also said high interest rates and skyrocketing housing prices make it difficult for most young people to buy a first home.

Bank of America uses a 3-1, income to payment ratio when determining whether a buyer is qualified for a loan, Abdalla said.

For example, he said someone buying a $120,000 home would take out a 30-year mortgage of $96,000 at 16 percent. A $24,000 or 20 percent cash downpayment would be necessary, he said.

"That's a payment of $1,275 a month, plus taxes of about $100 a month, insurance at $40 a month and utilities of $150 a month. That totals $1,565," he said.

Using the 3-1 ratio, an income of $4,689 a month would be needed, Abdalla said.

"The sad part is, particularly on the Peninsula, the younger element is being totally blocked out of the market," he observed.

CVPOA elects 4 to board

THE CARMEL VALLEY Property Owners Association has elected four new members to its board of directors.

Selected from seven candidates on a mail-in ballot were: Nancy Burnett, a mother; Ann McGowan, a lawyer; Paul Beemer, a retired engineer, and Herbert Holbrook, a former corporation executive.

Five officers were also elected unopposed: Jack Sassard, president; Robert Greenwood, vice president; Evelyn Smart, recording secretary; Jacqueline Marks, corresponding secretary, and Lynn Morris, treasurer.

The new board members and officers will be installed at the CVPOA's general membership meeting Jan. 14.

Local Coastal Program hearings due

By JOANNE HODGEN

MONTEREY COUNTY planners presented the final draft of the Carmel area Local Coastal Program to the LCP Citizens Advisory Committee for review when it met Thursday, Dec. 11.

The county Planning Commission was scheduled to hold public hearings on the LCP yesterday (Dec. 17). Assistant county planning director Ray Lamb told the CAC that hearings will continue into January.

Though most of the LCP for unincorporated Carmel and Carmel Highlands has been endorsed by the CAC, the controversial Land Use and Development segment has only been approved in concept.

Other segments that the CAC must review are Archeological Resources, Visual Resources and policies pertaining to water availability and transportation.

General policies in the Land Use and Development segment of the LCP were presented to the CAC for the first time Dec. 11.

According to the general policies statement, the Carmel River will provide a natural boundary between urban and high-intensity uses to the north and rural, low-intensity uses to the south.

"Agricultural activities, passive and low-intensity recreation and rural residential use of the Carmel segment's large private landholdings are the most appropriate land uses for these areas," the LCP stated.

New subdivision and development of areas south of Carmel River will be permitted, according to the LCP, only if specific criteria are met.

The criteria include: development be built outside public views; roads and structures be built to avoid degradation of riparian corridors (chiefly areas along Carmel River); development be in keeping with the present rural character of the area, and adequate water supply be available.

THE RESTRICTIONS will largely affect the Odello property east of Highway 1 and south of Carmel River.

The Odellos want to build 97 condominiums, a 200-unit hotel and farmers' market on the 134 acres of agricultural land.

However, the CAC adopted an agricultural policy earlier that would permit a mix of residential units and visitor-serving facilities on the eastern portion of the property only if flood hazards along Carmel River are solved.

Committee members had also voted to support the idea of a flood management survey of the Lower Valley. Plans for development could proceed while the survey was being completed.

However, county planners have proposed that land-use decisions be postponed until the survey is completed.

SUSAN HILINSKI, Carmel area project planner for Monterey County, told CAC members Dec. 11 that their flood hazards recommendations were not incorporated into the LCP because of conflicts with zoning laws.

She assured the committee members that their comments would be forwarded to the Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors.

Miss Hilinski had said earlier that piecemeal flood protection endangered property and aggravated existing problems.

The Odello land lies in the 100-year floodplain, which encompasses the Lower Valley.

THE LCP now states that the management study of lower Carmel Valley should be undertaken to determine the solutions to the flood hazards problem. "Until this study is completed and solutions to the flood problem are determined, further development in the lower Valley floodplain should be avoided," it stated.

ANOTHER PROPOSED development on Pt. Lobos Ranch, which has been discussed previously by the CAC, will be permitted in the flatlands and internal area of the property, near Point Lobos State Reserve east of Highway 1.

Miss Hilinski said the area is most suitable for major visitor-serving facilities including visitor accommodations, horseback riding, hiking trails and picnics. She said the development might relieve the demands now being made on Point Lobos Reserve.

Carl Hooper of Carmel objected to a portion of the Administration and Implementation segment of the LCP which permits residential growth to continue at the "historic rate."

"This limits growth to the historic rate, but does not say what the historic rate is," Hooper said.

CAC member Rod Holmgren agreed with Hooper that a growth figure should be determined.

Hooper also noted that the LCP states all developments will require permits. "If a permit proposal is not acceptable during the once-a-year review we'll have to wait another year," Hooper observed.

Miss Hilinski said that the permit requirement will not apply to single-family parcels, only to subdivisions and other developments.

The citizens' committee was to have met Monday, Dec. 15, to continue discussion of the final draft LCP.

After public hearings with the county Planning Commission and supervisors, the LCP will be reviewed by the Regional Coastal Commission.

Final approval comes from the California Coastal Commission, at which time the LCP will serve as the county's guideline for land use, public access and conservation decisions in the unincorporated Carmel area and Carmel Highlands.

A tentative deadline of July 1, 1981, has been set by the state for final certification.

Planners sought

William G. Peters, supervisor-elect of Monterey County's Fifth District, said today he is seeking persons interested in serving on the county Planning Commission.

"As Supervisor," Peters said, "one of my most difficult decisions will be the selection of a new member of the Monterey County Planning Commission."

Persons applying must live in the Fifth Supervisorial District, which includes Big Sur, Carmel, Carmel Highlands, Carmel Valley, Del Monte Forest, Pacific Grove and the portions of Monterey generally west of Pacific Street.

Peters said, "The person must be committed to the preservation of the environment of Monterey County and to the notion that we must limit and control growth within the constraints of our environment."

Applications should be mailed to Peters, 1200 Aguajito Road, Motnerey 93940. The application should consist of a resume and a one-page letter suggesting why the person desires to be appointed. The deadline for the submission of applications is Dec. 23. Applications will be screened and finalists interviewed. The objective will be to appoint the new commissioner before the first commission meeting in January.

Peters also noted there are a large number of positions open for persons to serve on Planning Commission Advisory Committees.

Those committees review applications in local areas with the applicants, visit the land under consideration and submit committee recommendations to the county Planning Commission.

Openings exist on each of the following advisory committees: Big Sur, unincorporated areas of Carmel, Lower Carmel Valley, Upper Carmel Valley, Del Monte Forest and South Coast. Applications for those positions also should be sent to Peters by Dec. 23.

Screening will be done by Peters and Planning Commissioner Gary Varga, and appointments will be made in January.

School board applications are accepted

APPLICATIONS are being received by the Carmel Unified School District to fill a vacancy on its Board of Education.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Trustee Frances Gaver, effective Jan. 7.

The application forms are available at the school district's office on Carmel Valley Road and at each school in the district.

The filing deadline is noon, Jan. 6. The board will review and screen applications at a special meeting. Jan. 8, and also at a regular board meeting later in January.

Panetta gets House post

California Democrats in the House of Representatives have named Rep. Leon E. Panetta, D-Monterey, to be the majority regional whip from Northern California.

As such, he will help the leadership schedule legislation for consideration on the floor, inform other House Democrats from California of the schedule, tell them of important pending votes and of positions taken by the leadership on key issues.

Panetta will work with newly appointed House Majority Whip Thomas S. Foley of Washington. He will assume his new role when the 97th Congress convenes in January.

Carmel Sanitary District sues counterpart in Pebble Beach over reclamation plan

THE CARMEL SANITARY District has filed a suit against the Pebble Beach Sanitary District to resolve their dispute over wastewater reclamation.

Carmel lawyer Donald G. Freeman, representing the board of directors of the Carmel Sanitary District, filed the suit in Monterey County Superior Court Dec. 10. It asks the court to declare that the Carmel Sanitary District is required by the state to establish a wastewater reclamation facility, and that the Pebble Beach Sanitary District must participate in the cost.

At issue is about $60,000 that directors of the Pebble Beach district have withheld as their share of the design of the proposed $13.7 million project.

The position of the Pebble Beach board has been that the project is not appropriate and that it should not help pay for it.

The Carmel board has maintained that Pebble Beach must participate in the project because of a contract between the two districts for sharing the cost of operating the sewage treatment plant that both use.

The boards of the two districts attempted this year to negotiate a solution to the dispute, but the negotiations broke down in November and the Carmel board decided to file a suit.

The eight-page complaint filed by Freeman cites the history of agreements between the two districts, the steps that led to the wastewater reclamation project and the position of the State Water Resources Control Board, which oversees the two districts.

The suit names as defendants the Pebble Beach board members, Richard Lord, John Strong, Morris Cox, Charles Christin and Donald Durant.

It asks the court to award the Carmel Sanitary District the cost of the suit and relief that the court finds just and proper considering the specifics of the case.

On March 27, 1969, the suit notes, the Carmel and Pebble Beach sanitary district entered into a signed agreement that provided for the mutual use of Carmel's sewage treatment plant and for Pebble Beach to pay for one-third of its operation and maintenance.

On June 15, 1975, the suit continues, the State Water Resources Control Board designated Carmel Bay an "area of special biological significance," a designation that required the sanitary district to halt its dicharge of treated wastewater into the bay.

The state's order was modified in 1978, allowing the district to discharge into the bay, but requiring that the summertime discharge be halted by 1983. The order also required that the district pursue wastewater reclamation as an alternative to discharging into the bay.

The Carmel district hired an engineer to plan and design a project to sell and deliver treated wastewater to golf courses. The suit notes that on Oct. 25, 1979, the Pebble Beach district declared that it would not participate in the project or its costs.

The suit notes that in August or September 1980 the Pebble Beach district met with staff and members of the State Water Resources Control Board to discuss its opposition to the project and alternatives to its participating.

The state board responded in a letter Sept. 24 urging Pebble Beach to re-evaluate its position, resolve its dispute with Carmel and work together in the project.

The suit asks the court to bind Pebble Beach Sanitary District to the project and declare it must participate in the costs.

Budget contract OK'd for library

A BUDGET CONTRACT nearly $20,000 less than requested by the Harrison Memorial Library board in Carmel has been approved by the county Board of Supervisors.

The board voted 4-0 to adopt a contract of $148,742 when it met Tuesday, Dec. 9.

In September, the supervisors authorized a contract of $136,232 with Harrison Memorial Library for services to county residents. The library had asked for $167,712.

A compromise between the county and library negotiators in November raised the contract to $148,742.

The City of Carmel apportioned $193,925 for the library during budget sessions in August and September. Because the library serves Carmel and county residents, operating costs are shared.

According to a report prepared by the staff of County Administrator Richard Andrews, the library's initial request was too high because of county budget limitations this year.

The contract was increased by $12,510, the report said, when money earmarked for a county library study was freed by the supervisors in November. The money was then distributed among county libraries.

The study will now be financed with state funds. It will determine the most economical approach to county library services.

The $19,000 deficit left by the county for Harrison Library will be partially met by the transfer of $12,000 in the capital outlay portion of the library budget to the operating budget. The city had allocated $12,000 for a book security system as a one-time capital outlay.

However, the library is still short $7,000.

Head librarian Jo Childers said that amount will be met by money in the beginning balance of the library budget.

A beginning balance is the operating fund used by the library during the first months of the fiscal year to meet expenses while the city and county budgets are being adopted.

PADRE SPORTS

By ELIZABETH SARET

CARMEL HIGH'S first boys' basketball game of the season was on Dec. 6 at Carmel, a 52-43 loss to Gilroy.

Brad Wiesner scored 12 points for the Carmel Padres, Todd Bliesner 10 and Chris Panetta had eight points.

Coach Joe Feldeisen said, "This loss was due in part to the fact that they had a poor shooting night. They were 18 for 60."

The next game was at Santa Cruz High School Dec. 9, and Carmel won 49-41.

Feldeisen said, "Santa Cruz is one of the best teams. Last year they made the playoffs in the SCCAL (Santa Cruz County Athletic League).

"Carmel played an excellent defensive game which was keyed by Greg Raynes' rebounding and Brad Langley's defensive play on the press. High point men were Richard Murphy with 14, Langley with nine and Raynes with eight. Leading rebounders were Raynes with 11 and Brad Weisner with eight."

CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL will hold its 34th annual basketball tournament Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 18 to 20.

The defending champions are St. Francis School. Eight schools will compete. Local schools include Monterey and Seaside high schools. Play will start at 4 p.m. Dec. 18.

CARMEL'S defending MTAL champion field hockey team opened its season beating Robert Louis Stevenson School Dec. 9.

Carmel played an excellent offensive game, led by Linda Fleager who scored five times. Tresia Martin was credited with two goals and an assist. Donna Womble had one goal and two assists. Susan Buckner had three assists. Susan Brandt and Brenda Lamica were credited with one assist each. Playing strong defense for Carmel High were fullbacks Trisha Spicher and Jeannie Harber.

Carmel's jayvee players beat RLS 1-0.

Carmel's goal was scored by Shawn Roth.

On Thursday Dec. 11, the Padres' field hockey team drew a 2-2 tie with Santa Catalina School.

Both Carmel goals were scored by Trisha Martin, with assists credited to Donna Womble. The jayvees lost 1-0 in a very good game.

Carmel will have its alumni game at 1 p.m. Friday, Dec. 26.

ON MONDAY, Dec. 10 Carmel High's girls' basketball team defeated Salinas High.

Led by Duffy Carolan's 18 points, the varsity team downed Salinas 50-34 to advance to the consolation playoff game at the Alisal Tournament.

On Thursday Dec. 11 the girls' basketball team defeated Notre Dame 51-39 to win the consolation trophy at Alisal. Dana Hunter led all scorers with 18 points and was selected to the all-tournament team.

THE CARMEL wrestling team lost to Seaside High School December 11th.

Winners for the Padres were Benny Scardina (pin), Bobby Walthour (dec.) Carmel Panetta (default), Ward Crane (pin) and Fred Lind (forfeit). The junior varsity team tied 18-18, with points for Mark Reardon (pin), Jack Ingram (pin) and Yrjo Koskinen (pin).

CARMEL'S SOCCER TEAM defeated San Lorenzo Valley Dec. 5, 6-5.

Goals were scored by Olaf De Rouen who had three, Rico De Rouen with two and Holger Leue with one.

On Dec. 6 Carmel competed in the MTAL Jamboree at Hartnell. They played 25-minute games against each team. Carmel tied Palma 1-1. The goal was scored by Holger Leue. They lost the next game to Hollister 5-2. Kerry Winslow and Joe McGowan scored for Carmel. They lost their next game to North County High 3-0. They won the next game against King City High 1-0. The goal was scored by Carlos Garzas. Carmel lost to Robert Louis Stevenson 4-0. The last game was a 5-1 loss to Gonzales High. Kerry Winslow scored for Carmel. The final standing of teams was Robert Louis Stevenson, Gonzales, Hollister, North County High, Palma, Carmel and King City.

The next game was Dec. 10, a 6-1 loss to RLS. It was Carmel's first league game.

Carmel next plays Palma at home Dec. 19.

Affordable housing

A MONTEREY COUNTY ordinance that seeks to provide affordable housing was the focus of a meeting of representatives from Monterey Peninsula cities and Monterey County Thursday, Dec. 11 at Sunset Center in Carmel. Elected officials and city staff members discussed the inclusionary housing ordinance that requires developers of any project of five units or more to set aside low- and moderate-income lots or homes equivalent to 15 percent of the project. Flexibility clauses allow developers several options, including locating units or lots outside the project and in other areas of the county. According to Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson, county and city officials disagreed on whether the ordinance will help solve the housing crunch. He said some officials are concerned that affordable housing will be concentrated in other cities like Marina. Though no policy decisions were made, Peterson said representatives agreed another meeting was necessary after the first of the year.

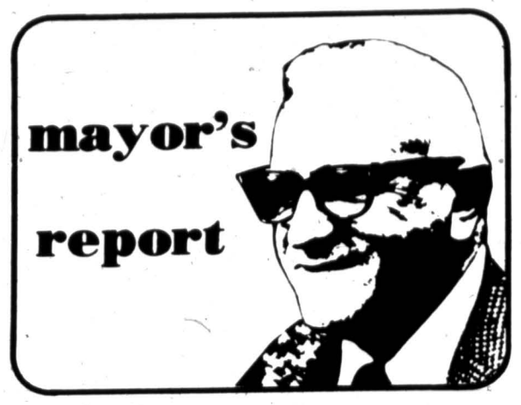
A time for compliments

By BARNEY LAIOLO



THE TREE-LIGHTING ceremony and singing of many choral groups recently was indeed a great show of community support and a most enjoyable evening.

All of the groups which contributed their talents and time are to be congratulated for a job well done. For those who didn't get down to the library building at Ocean and Lincoln to hear the Barbershoppers perform and then again up the block on Ocean Avenue really missed a great outburst of song by one fine group of dedicated men. The Barbershoppers ended their evening with an impromptu songfest in the Pine Inn. The McKees were very gracious in furnishing a very nice room off the lobby, along with coffee and cookies for the performers.

THERE ARE SEVERAL people and groups to be commended for a well-planned and entertaining evening.

To mention a few of the good samaritans, I would include the Pine Inn, Toots Lagoon restaurant, The Harbinger, The Left Bank, Carmel Kitchen, Merv Sutton's, Nielsen Grocery, Wishart's Bakery, De Smet Bakery and First Federal Savings and Loan. My apologies to anyone I may have missed.

I WANT to compliment the Carmel Business Association for its total devotion of time and money to make this the pleasant evening that it was.

Just to add another note regarding the holiday programs — the CBA has also arranged for groups to sing carols in various sections of town at 7 nightly until Christmas. I would appreciate your coming out and joining in the festivities.

Thanks to all who participate in this community togetherness.

I WAS PLEASED to have had the privilege to enjoy the Christmas program and sing-a-long directed by Ann Welchner at Sunset Center.

Special thanks also to Robert Klevin who directed the choir on stage; to Bill Zeitler, the accompanist, and to Ann Vorkoeper, the rehearsal accompanist. This was a very enjoyable afternoon which was followed by Santa Claus arriving with candy for the children. Delicious cookies and hot cider were served to all on the terrace of Sunset Center.

I also wish to thank Richard Tyler and the Sunset Center staff for all of their efforts in making this a very memorable afternoon.

Congratulations and thanks to Dee Olivetti for her very beautiful original Christmas carol.

ON THE SERIOUS SIDE of this past week's happenings — the City Council voted to enact stronger controls on the ever increasing proliferation of transient rentals in the residential zone.

The reasoning behind this action was an effort to maintain the residential atmosphere for which Carmel was always known. This action, which is the termination of many years of conscientious study and hard work on the part of the Planning Commission, the council and the city staff, will hopefully put us in a better position to restrict short-term rentals. The council realizes this is not the panacea for all ills, and enforcement will be enhanced by cooperation of residents, but at least it is a step in the right direction.

ONE OTHER GOOD THING happened Thursday morning when a meeting at Sunset Center was attended by members of the Board of Supervisors, representatives from all of the Monterey Peninsula cities and members of the county Planning Department and Commission.

This was the first meeting of its kind.

The topic of the day was housing goals relating to the General Plan for Monterey County. Some dissatisfaction was expressed by several representatives because they were not given copies of the proposed ordinance before the meeting. One accomplishment that I feel occurred from this assembly was a better understanding of the need for cooperation among all of the entities involved. It is the first time many of these people have met face-to-face and were able to discuss and present their ideas and suggestions in a combined overall effort. I hope this is just the beginning of combined meetings with representatives of all levels of city and county government to arrive at common-sense, down-to-earth discussions of the various important subjects that must be addressed.

May I congratulate the supervisors for instigating this approach. Carmel is very pleased to have hosted the first meeting. May there be many more!

I WISH to thank the many people who have brought in clothing, blankets, shoes and other items to be sent to Italy to help the unfortunate victims of the recent earthquake.

I have delivered the first vanload to Marris Van and Storage Co., which has so graciously agreed to prepare the items for transport via Al Italia airline, which is donating the use of its planes. Feel free to bring in anything you can spare that might help someone less fortunate than ourselves.

Ways of healing

Dear Editor:

I appreciated your article on Robert Chorney and his alternative method of achieving a cure for his "medical" problem.

I can understand his persistence in trying some other way than surgery and traditional medicine.

In 1956 I suffered a whiplash and for over 10 years lived in extreme pain. I had two surgeries plus many expensive types of experimental pills.

I was fortunate finally to hear of a chiropractor in San Jose, a graduate of Stanford University in 1931.

By replacing the top vertabrae in my neck to its natural position, I was relieved from pain and have been to this date.

Dear Editor:

The Carmel Pine Cone, as well as all other newspapers, weeklies, magazines and the entire oral and printing media calls Gov. Reagan "president-elect" by mistake.

His legal title from the moment the result of the Nov. 4 election was verified to the moment the Electoral College proclaimed the result of the votes cast by its members is "president designated".

An American president is not elected by direct popular vote, but through the indirect vote of electors, members of the Electoral College.

Answers are requested for medical mysteries

By EVELYN SMART

Dear Doctor,

I have a story to tell you.

Dr. Lockett was examining my hands carefully. "You must have done something very good or very bad to earn all of this jewelry, Carol." We both laughed.

He continued: "Well, you're really remarkable. Yuor chronological age is far greater than your physiological age. You look better every year. You can dress now. I'll call you in a day or two about the Pap smear, but I'm sure everything is fine. You're about five pounds overweight, but who's to notice on anyone as pretty as you? See you next year."

The two-hour annual physical was over and I'd passed again with flying colors. What a great guy! I'd follow him anywhere.

He retired within eight months and moved to Fresno to be near his grandchildren.

A YEAR had gone by and I realized it was past time to check in with Dr. Lockett's replacement.

The nurse led me from the waiting room to the hall and pointed to the examining room. She'd made a mistake. There was someone already in there — a skinny kid with a beard. I started to back out, but he reached out and took my hand. "I'm Dr. Carrington."

The examination was somber and thorough.

"Mrs. Anderson, you're at least 20 pounds overweight. I don't have the time to tell you the burden this places on every organ in your body. Here is a diet, and I want you to begin a daily exercise program. This diet will also help to reduce the fat and sugar in your blood, which is way too high. Also, you drink too much. Cut out that second cocktail."

I took a deep breath and said, "What about the back pain I mentioned?"

"Well you're 50, you know. You have to expect a little pain at that age. You'll just have to learn to live with it."

Good grief! What had happened to me in one year? My pattern had followed its predictable routine as it had the past 25 years. I looked and felt the same. Hadn't gained a pound.

"Thank you," I said, smiling weakly. I hesitated and then lumbered down from the examining table, feeling like Grandma Moses. I sighed and thought — I'm really over the hill.

I went straight home, fixed myself a huge bowl of buttered popcorn, drank a quart of apple juice and thought, "What the heck does he know anyway, that smarty-pants kid!"

THE PAIN and stiffness were almost unbearable.

Even dressing required aid. It was not a life-threatening situation, but seeking the quickest possible relief for my agony, I made an appointment with the nearest orthopedic surgeon.

"You have a severe case of bursitis. We'll take some X-rays. I believe we'll find calcium deposits which will probably require surgery."

"But I've never had a problem before. I think I just played too much badminton last week."

"The calcium could erode the cartilage and lead to deformity."

Coward that I am, but aching for relief, I was driven by a friend to her physicain in the next community. After a thoroughly painful examination, he produced what appeared to be a two-inch needle.

"This is cortisone and Novocain. I will inject it directly into the joint and in a day or two the inflammation will subside."

That sounded risky. I was allergic to cortisone and was not too happy about the idea of any foreign material being injected into the very essence of my pain.

A THIRD PHYSICIAN at a medical clinic prescribed muscle relaxants and instructed me to get the arm moving to prevent "freezing."

Number four put my arm in a sling, instructing me to refrain from using it completely, allowing the cartilage to rebuild itself.

DOCTORS, I am confused.

With the paradox of preventive medicine and the advent of the wellness clinics, guest editorial

alongside the radical preventive double mastectomies for women judged prone to cancer and the continuing prophylactic hysterectomies, where do we lay people go for answers?

While public controversies continue over insulin vs. diet, midwives vs. gynecologists, running vs. non-running, annual physicals, Pap smears, mammograms, X-rays, episodic drug deaths and shock therapy, not to mention the total confusion over low-cholesterol vs. low-protein vs. low-carbohydrate diets; and while your colleagues are writing books advising us to stay away from hospitals because they are dangerous places, where do we turn?

I am not asking for a united front at any cost and am happy to see the cloak of medical mystery being shed, but the divergence of opinions on any given case is startling. Should we comparison shop for every given illness, or is it possible that the time-honored tradition of racing to the doctor at the first sign of illness should be seriously re-examined? We all want quality care from responsible medical people, but we are increasingly given wrong answers, and the answers course through our very lifelines.

Some of you are saying that as many as 90 percent of all people who consult you would recover with no treatment at all. Are you then really our medical saviors, or is your chief function just to be there in your important and comforting role of "doctor?"

As always, I am looking to you for answers to those baffling contradictions.

Respectfully,
Your patient

EIR may be ordered for Berta Ranch project

AN ENVIRONMENTAL Impact Report may be ordered for the proposed subdivision of the 2,040-acre Berta Ranch in upper Carmel Valley.

The Monterey County Subdivision Committee is scheduled to review and decide on the environmental assessment requirements for the project Dec. 22.

Developer Richard Pryor of Carmel Valley, the Berta family and other persons have proposed 54 estate-size parcels of about 40 acres each on the ranchland.

The Berta Ranch is north of Carmel Valley Road and east of Holman Ranch and Carmel Valley Village; it stretches over the hills from near the Valley floor to the ridgetop that borders Corral de Tierra. A home and cattle grazing are the present uses.

The Berta family, which homesteaded the land in the 1800s, would retain 700 acres and its cattle-grazing operation under a proposed deal with Pryor, his wife, Ken Haff of Haff's Homes and Acreage and Jim Moewe, a San Francisco lawyer. Pryor and his partners would acquire 1,300 acres contingent on approval of a tentative subdivision map for the project.

Application for a tentative subdivision map will have to await re-adoption of the new Carmel Valley Master Plan; the project would then compete with other projects in the Valley for approval and an allocation of lots.

The county Subdivision Committee is expected to recommend an EIR because of the size of the 54-parcel project and questions on sewage disposal and traffic, among others.

The property does not front on Carmel Valley Road, but there is a road easement to it.

'Fantastic Fabric Sculpture' exhibit to open

Vonn Hamilton's Fantastic World of Fabric Sculpture will be presented Friday, Dec. 19 through Jan. 9 at Marjorie Evans Gallery at Sunset Center, Carmel. There will be a reception for the artist Friday, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m.

Vonn Hamilton of Carmel Valley, the creator of these exquisitely detailed figurines, utilizes the principles of the very ancient craft of papier-mache.

His works range from sheer fantasy to the medieval pageantry and splendor of King Arthur's Camelot. They also include the captivating Byzantine Festival Figures and the lovely exotic mood pieces of the Far East, ancient China, and the traditional classics of Japan.

The artist began his career in another field. He was a featured dancer with the Metropolitan Opera Company, made coast-to-coast tours under the auspices of Sol Hurok, was soloist in the Folies Bergeres, and danced leads in such Broadway musicals as Show Boat, Great Waltz, Bloomer Girl, and Song of Norway.

He was choreographer for many outdoor musical spectaculars in Dallas, Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Kansas City. After some false starts towards a second career, he chanced upon this field in which he could use both his talents and impressive theatrical background. The expressive hands and compelling beauty of movement in these award-winning originals bear testimony to the technical mastery of his dance training. The eye-catching costuming attests to that facet of his career.

Hamilton was introduced to papier-mache as a hobby and he became completely entranced with the medium. He began to create what developed into exquisitely detailed figurines simply by utilizing his formidable theatrical background. He posed his figures in correct dance poses that appealed to the eye. His vivid imagination and know-how of color and costume design came to the fore. With the use of fabric rather than paper he gave permanence to the sweeping draperies, which in turn brought life and vitality to the statuettes.

He starts by modeling the head of clay and making a latex mold of this. The finished duplication is cast in plastic wood. The fingers are carved from birch-wood and bound together to form hands. The head is mounted on a torso, which is a simple form resembling a dressmaker's dummy, made of papier-mache. The only armature is a single wire placed in the torso at shoulder level. After positioning, this wire ultimately becomes the arms, and the hands are attached to each end. The torso is posed, draped with fabric saturated in a paste solution, and modeled while wet to form the costume and headdress. Texturizing, antiquing or adding collage in mosaic-like patterns with imported handmade papers finish the 14-inch standing or eight-inch seated statuette.

Among the effects he has achieved over a period of fifteen years are the actual look and feel of porcelain and old ivory, the rich texture of velvet and the natural graining of marble and jade. Hamilton's glaze-like finishes are in jewel tones or the traditional blanc-de-chine. The figurines are also completely washable.

His first one-man show was at Bellas Artes in Mexico, where he broke all house attendance records and sales records.

This appearance at the Marjorie Evans Gallery in the Carmel Cultural Center will be his first in five years, and marks his first one-man show in America, although his works are known in galleries and private collections throughout the world.

Sunset Cultural Center is located at Ninth and San Carlos, Carmel.

The Marjorie Evans Gallery is open each weekday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge. For further information, phone 624-3996.

Mission and Wayfarer choirs to sing Sounds of Christmas

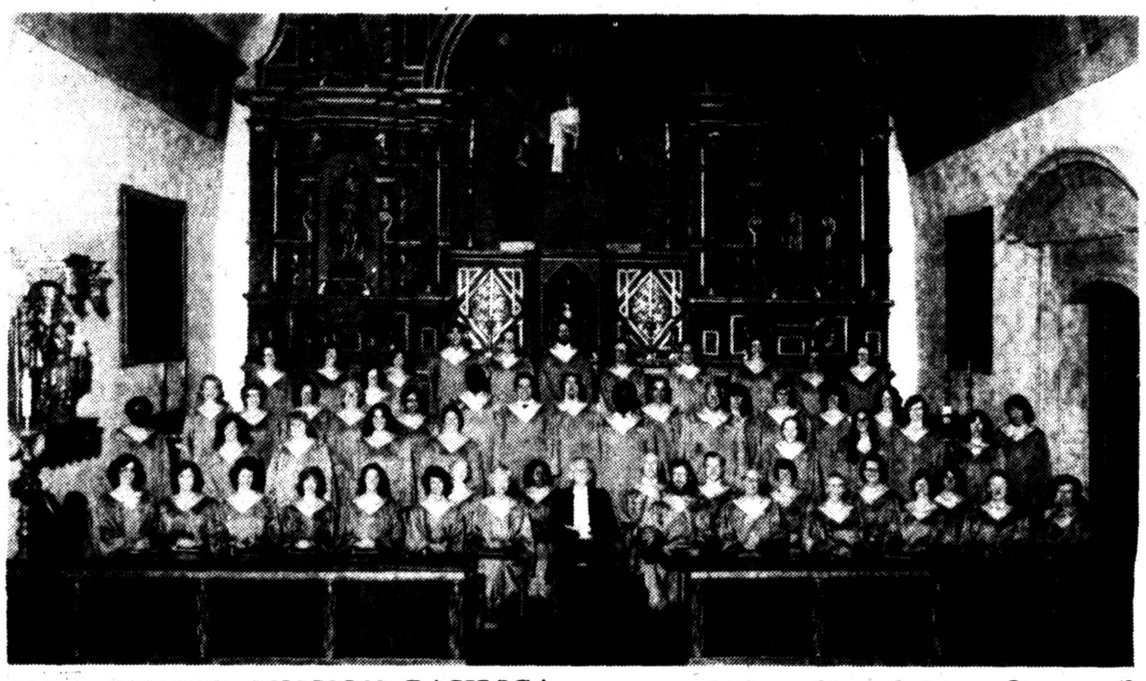
The Sounds of Christmas in Carmel, a community festival of song coordinated by the Carmel Business Association, continues with two concerts on the avenues of the town this week. Both performances are at 7 p.m.

The Church of the Wayfarer Choir will sing Thursday, Dec. 18 at Ocean Avenue and Lincoln Street.

On Monday, Dec. 22, the Carmel Mission Basilica Choir will give the final concert in the series at the Piccadilly Nursery site, Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh. At that time, Carmel Business Association president Tom Brown will present prizes to the winner of the association's annual Christmas Window Decoration Contest.

Throughout the week, carolers and small instrumental groups will stroll the streets of downtown Carmel.

For further information, phone 624-4887.



THE CARMEL MISSION BASILICA CHOIR will sing in The Sounds of Christmas in Carmel celebration Monday, Dec. 22 at 7 p.m. on Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh. Everyone is invited to gather and watch the free performance.

Where to go for Christmas dinner

When families unite to share the joys of Christmas Day, more and more choose to enjoy Christmas dinner at a fine restaurant rather than spend precious hours in the kitchen.

Special Christmas dinners will be served at the following restaurants. Most recommend early reservations to avoid disappointment.

The Covey: Partridge and pears are the treats on the day of Christmas as The Covey offers Partridge Baden cooked with fresh pears in a light cream sauce. Beef Wellington is the other main attraction. For an appetizer, ham rolls cumberland in red currant jelly sauce will be served with fresh pineapple garnish. Cream Soup Cardinale and lobster soup will be the soup choices, and for dessert, a chocolate triffle is the main attraction. Prices are $3.95 for ham rolls, Beef Willington, $17.50, and Partridge, $16.50. The chocolate cake is $3.25. Children under 12 are offered the entrees for $10. All served from 4-8 p.m. At Quail Lodge, Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, Carmel Valley. Reservations required: 624-1581.

Scandia Restaurant: Christmas will be cheerful with a choice of prime rib, turkey, roast duck, salmon, or lamb for $8.95. This includes soup or salad. For desserts, chocolate mousse, brandy pecan pie, Scandinavian cheesecake, and chiffon custard are the pickings, all served from noon to 10 p.m. Ocean near Lincoln, Carmel. 624-5659.

Cerrito's Neptune's Table: From noon to 8 p.m., the Christmas dinner starts with Cream of Chicken Soup a la Reine, Boston or Manhattan Clam Chowder, tossed green salad with choice of dressing, roast young tom turkey with giblet gravy and cranberry sauce with apple, walnut and raisin stuffing, broccoli with hollandaise sauce and potato georgette. For desert, a choice of carrot cake, dutch apple cheesecake, strawberry poppyseed cake, Rein De Saba (chocolate torte cake, rich, with rum!), or the traditional pumpkin pie. The regular menu is also offered. $8.95 for adults, $3.95 for children. Old Fisherman's Wharf No. 1, Monterey. 375-3113.

The Harbinger: a special Christmas menu will be served from 5:30-10 p.m. This includes Roast Stuffed Goose for $9.95, Roast Prime Rib of Beef, $11.95, Roast Duckling Flambe, $10.95, Broiled New York Steak, $12.25, Pepper Steak Flambe, $12.50, or Broiled Lamb Chops, $11.95. Dinner comes with Cream of Asparagus Soup, Tossed Green Salad with choice of dressing, scallops, potatoes or rice, fresh vegetables, and brioche rolls with butter. On the lower level of Carmel Plaza, Junipero and Ocean, Carmel. Reservations suggested: 625-1483.

Fox Hill: regular meals will be served on that day, with breakfast from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and a regular dinner menu plus a special Christmas prime rib will be served from 5:30-9 p.m. for $9.95. Carmel Valley Road at Laureles Grade, Carmel Valley. Reservations suggested: 659-3427.

Club XIX: in The Lodge at Pebble Beach, this French restaurant will serve full lunch for Christmas diners from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and a more limited menu of sandwiches and salads served from 3-5 p.m. Dinner will be served from 7-10 p.m. from the regular menu. Lunches range from $7-$8 and dinners from $12-$13. The gate fee into Del Monte Forest will be refunded in cash upon presentation of the gate receipt. Reservations required: 625-1880.

Ramada Inn: a special entree choice of roast beef, turkey, or ham will be offered, and each dinner comes with fresh vegetable and potato and salad bar with grainary bread. For dessert, a choice of pumpkin pie with fresh whipped cream or homemade coffee mousse will delight Christmas spirits. All of this served from noon to 9 p.m. Price is $7.50 for adults and $4.50 for children. 1425 Munras, Monterey. Reservations suggested: 649-1020.

The Pine Inn: holiday repasts will be served by the restaurant at four sittings scheduled at 1, 3, 5, and 8 p.m. A complete dinner will be served including assorted relishes, mixed nuts, seafood crepes, cream of artichoke soup, spinach salad, choice of roast tom turkey with chestnut dressing with fresh cranberry sauce, candied yams, mashed potatoes, fresh green beans, or roast prime rib of beef with Yorkshire pudding, baked potato, fresh green beans, stuffed tomato with puree of peas. Of course, a chocie of dessert is included:

Open house to honor local cartoonist

Noted cartoonist Al Johns will be featured at an open house Saturday, Dec. 20 from noon to 8 p.m. at The Craftsman's Gallery, Sixth and Dolores, Carmel. Everyone is invited to attend; complimentary refreshments will be served.

Al Johns' wife and business partner, Grace, will be at the gallery to greet people and offer signed prints of his cartons at a reduced open house price.

Al Johns is the most published magazine cartoonist in America. His talent was first recognized 25 years ago when his cartoons started appearing regularly in the Saturday Evening Post. By 1954, he was rated seventh among the top ten magazine cartoonists.

A World War II navy veteran, Al attended the Hon School of Cartooning in Hollywood after his discharge from the service.

Johns and his wife live in Pebble Beach. Grace Johns matches cartoons to the magazines that can best use them and says publishers appreciate dealing with her rather than a "syndicate" and are impressed with the husband-wife operation.

Everyone is welcome. The Craftsman's Gallery is a cooperative. For further information, phone 624-8850.

For dessert, the traditional Christmas yule log will be served for $3.75. At the corner of Mission and Junipero, Carmel. Reservations required: 625-1766.

Yule Log ceremony set at Highlands Inn

The traditional Laying of the Yule Log will be presented as part of the Scottish Merry Month celebrations at the Highlands Inn, four miles south of Carmel on Highway 1. The event begins at 9 p.m. Christmas Eve, Wednesday, Dec. 24 and will conclude with a party and dancing. Everyone is welcome to attend; there is no charge.

The evening begins with a ceremonial search for a Yule Log, conducted by the Inn's bellmen and crew, who will make a mock search through the woods accompanied by the Highland Pipers.

The Yule Log, the largest log in the forest, will be carried into the Inn's lobby and laid on the massive stone hearth. Red wine will be poured over it to symbolize the birth of the sun. The log will then be lighted with the ashes of last year's Yule Log to symbolize the passing of the Winter Solstice.

Celebrants are advised that seating is limited.

For further information, phone 624-3801.

Chamber ensemble to give concert

Hidden Valley Chamber Ensemble will present a concert Friday, Dec. 19 at 8 p.m. The concert will be at the First Presbyterian Church in Monterey, and marks the first public concert appearance of the ensemble.

The program will open with Milhaud's Suite for Clarinet, Violin and Piano, followed by Rossini's Duo for Cello and String Bass. The first half of the program will close with a performance of Mozart's Flute Quartet in C Major. The second half of the program will consist of Schumann's Piano Quintet, Opus 44.

The Hidden Valley Chamber Ensemble is a CETA-funded training program designed to offer local instrumentalists opportunity to study and perform chamber music in an educational environment. Musical direction is provided by Stewart Robertson, known to local concert-goers as conductor of last season's Hidden Valley Chamber Orchestra. Ensemble members participating in Friday's concert will be David Dally, violin; Ruth Kaufman, violin; Carmen Martin, cello; Don Nelson, string bass; Craig Olzenak, clarinet; Liz Van Loon, cello; Linn Van Meter, viola; and Gail Veslage, flute. Mr. Robertson will appear as pianist in the Schumann Piano Quintet and the Milhaud piece.

The First Presbyterian Church is located at 501 El Dorado, Monterey. Admision to the concert is free; donations will be accepted.

Everyone is welcome. For more information, please call Hidden Valley at 659-3115.

Singing Christmas Tree is in 18th year

Since when do Christmas trees sing? For the past 17 years. The Peninsula Christian Center, formerly First Assembly of God, presents an annual Singing Christmas Tree outdoor extravaganza, and the event this year will be Friday through Monday, Dec. 19-22 at 8 p.m. at the center, Pine and Grand avenues, Pacific Grove.

The Singing Christmas Tree is actually a complex system of scaffolds. Members of a 50-voice mixed choir from the Peninsula Christian Center arrange themselves on it to serenade listeners on the street below. The five-tier structure was designed by a professional architect for the first performance and is stored for use year after year.

It is masked with freshly cut pine boughs; lights and a sound system are wired onto the back. Singers climb to their places on walkways which form the tree's boughs by way of ladders hidden from the audience.

The chorus, under the direction of Dan Burchett, will perform a piece entitled His Love Reaching by gospel writers Bill and Gloria Gaither, arranged by Ron Huff.

Traditional Christmas carols are included in a portion of the piece and at this point of the program, everyone is asked to join in the singing.

For further information, phone 373-0431.

Friends of Carmel Valley Library to screen 'Hamlet' Friday

Friends of the Carmel Valley Library will screen Hamlet with Lawrence Olivier Friday, Dec. 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the library, 65 W. Carmel Valley Road.

The 1948 British version of the film also stars Jean Simmons, Basil Sydney, Eileen Herlie.

Shakespeare's tragedy of the Danish prince has been brought to life by Olivier. It is film-making at its finest and should be seen by all. It has been dubbed the greatest play in all literature and is superbly directed and performed by one of the greatest actors of the era — a perfect combination.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12. Everyone is welcome to attend.

For further information, phone 659-2377.

Celebrities sign up for Crosby clambake

Terry Bradshaw, quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers, is signed up for play in the upcoming Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Jan. 29-Feb. 1 at Pebble Beach.

Other celebrity amateurs are Arthur Ashe, Pat Boone, John Brodie, Jeff Burroughs, Glen Campbell, Clint Eastwood, Gerald Ford, James Garner, Tommy John, Hank Ketcham, Jack Lemmon, Willie Mays, Roger Penske, Charley Pride, Telly Savalas, Charles Schulz, George C. Scott, Adm. Alan Shepard, Don Sutton, Efrem Zimbalist, and host, Nathaniel Crosby.

Jack Nicklaus heads the list of early commitments from the PGA tour. Competing along with Nicklaus for a share of the $300,000 prize money will be defending champion, George Burns. Also to compete are Hale Irwin, Hubert Green, Johnny Miller, Andy North, Jerry Pate, Curtis Strange, Lee Elder, Mark Reid, Larry Nelson, Ray Floyd, Lou Graham, Dave Stockton and Bill Kratzert.

Amateurs numbering 168 will team with professionals for the 72-hole national pro-am over the three Pebble Beach courses: Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill.

Booster Badges, $30 each and good for the entire week of golf, will be available only until Jan. 1.

After that, the regular season badge will be sold for $35. For ticket information, write Bing Crosby Golf, Box 36, Pebble Beach, 93953, or phone 649-8500.

Net proceeds will benefit the Bing Crosby Youth Fund.

Sierra Club plans hikes

The Sierra Club will host two hikes this week. Everyone is invited to join in the great outdoor activity.

A hike to University of California at Santa Cruz nature trail is planned for Saturday, Dec. 20 and a backpack trip to Pat Springs is planned for Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 20-21.

Since the University of California at Santa Cruz is now operating a research station in Big Creek, it has established a fine nature trail that offers great views and a wonderful variety of plant life. This a six mile loop, and there is a pretty fair elevation gain. The trail is not quite completed but it will give no trouble in coming down through the meadows.

Those interested should meet in back of Brinton's at Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at 8 a.m. Wear good boots and bring a lunch, water and a jacket. It is a 50-mile drive to Big Creek, so participants should bring $4 for the driver. For further information, phone leader Rudd Crawford, 372-6626 or co-leader Gordon Williams, 372-6374.

The backpack trip to Pat Springs will be a moderately strenuous hike of 8 miles each way and a 2,000 ft. elevation gain. Hope for clear skies and a full moon, but come prepared for high winds and rain common along this ridge this time of year. Meet behind Brinton's at Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at 8 a.m. Suggested carpool fee is $3. For further information, phone leader Frank Shields, 684-1315, evenings.

Choral Society concert gave spirit to the magic of Christmas

By SCOTT MacCLELLAND

DESPITE the early-birds and the relentless commercial machine the Christmas spirit in many of us is not really tapped until the Choral Society's Christmas concert in the Carmel Mission.

And over the years it has become a habit. The mission concert gently and sweetly seduces a holiday sentiment that Del Monte Center and the Barnyard have been unsuccessfully trying to beat out of us.

And over the same years the Choral Society's effort, under the direction of Haymo Taeuber and with a chamber orchestra drawn from the Monterey County Symphony, has attracted ever-increasing audiences. With only one way to obtain tickets, by mail order, the three performances this year were sold out within two weeks of the announcement. The Choral Society has the enviable pleasure of buying advertising for the purpose of informing us that no tickets are available.

Maestro Taeuber's program, as heard last Sunday, was a fresh variation on traditional themes. The major offering was Haydn's Theresa Mass with rarely heard works by Holst and Saint-Saens mixed up with various traditional carols and songs. As if Taeuber did not have enough to do, this season adding a Christmas program for Community Hospital tomorrow (Friday) afternoon and the special Symphony-

Istomin concert Jan. 3, he accomplished an orchestration of two movements from the Saint-Saens Christmas Oratorio, a piece left by its composer with only an organ accompaniment. The "orchestration" basically added a harp, with those plucked felicities ably accomplished by Elizabeth Bacigalupi.

In the Benedictus, the vocalists were Caterina Micheli and Thomas Hart. Tenor Stephen Janzen joined them for the Tecum Principium. It was lovely Saint-Saens music though the men, especially Hart, seemed to have weights tugging at their vocal cords.

Haydn's Theresa Mass (in B-flat) was first heard in 1799. It dates therefore from the composer's rich maturity, four years after his last symphony (No. 104) one year after the oratorio The Creation and 10 years before his death at 77. The work, as excellent as it is, tends to be overshadowed by Haydn's other major mass settings (Mass in Time of War, Nelson, Harmonie). Most of the piece is typically optimistic, through the Crucifixus and Agnus Dei are both unusually tragic for Haydn. The former was portrayed by the solo quartet and was immediately answered by a choral Resurrexit of force and excitement. Being late in the program, the Mass saw baritone Thomas Hart grow more secure in intonation. The alto was Glenna DeWeese, who was giving her local swan song as she is soon to depart our shores. Overall, the performance was a bit rag-tag, both in the chorus and vocal solo departments and in the orchestra, especially the strings, but was still satisfying and deliberate.

CHRISTMAS DAY, a choral fantasy on old familiar carols by Gustav Holst, proved clever for its structural and contrapuntal devices.

Much of Holst's music reflects such Bachian concerns (fugue, stretto, cantus firmus) and, while otherwise less than a blinding streak of inspiration, the piece was comfortably well executed and a pleasure in its concentrated brevity.

THE PROGRAM OPENED with two motets by the early German baroque master Michael Praetorius, including the familiar In dulci jubilo; three old carols, including Taeuber's own arrangement of Bring a Torch Jeannette, Isabella, and included a pair of "less-known" carols, one each from Spain and Austria.

In the first of those, A la nanina nana, choral soprano Yolanda Mitchell gave a bright and well-focused solo. In fact, Ms. Mitchell gave the entire soprano section the point of focus and articulation that it otherwise lacked.

The evening ended with Taeuber's arrangement of Gruber's Silent Night, and though the annual ritual was over, its magic remained in the souls of those who came to participate and to share.

The program was taped for broadcast by KWAV-FM 97 on Christmas Day at 8 p.m.

Scott MacClelland is classical music director for KWAV-FM.

Backgammon

by Alfred Sheinwold

A CHOICE OF POINTS

You, White, roll 6-2 in the diagrammed position. How do you play it?

This sort of position is very common. It is very early in the game, and you can make either your bar point or a good inside point. Which point should you make?

Since Black still has two men on your 1-point, there is no hurry about making the bar point. If Black had rolled 6-5 at his previous turn, escaping with one of his men, you would make your bar point in the attempt to hold his other man back.

The bar point is not as valuable as most players think. Your 5-point and your 4-point are far more valuable. Your 3-point is less important until you have already made your 5-point or 4-point (or both).

In this position, moreover, Black may not manage to cover his blot. If you manage to hit the blot, you would much rather have an additional point in your home board than an outside point.

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

Choosing a holiday wine need not be difficult

By ROBERT LAWRENCE BALZER

FOR ALMOST EVERYONE, the last few days before Christmas become a hectic rush of shopping dilemmas, of last-minute decisions, of hopeful solutions to gift-giving.

And then there are those days and hours, after the flurry of wrapping, ribbons, tinsel and tree-trimming when all the Christmas baking fills the house with scents of sugar and spice, nutmeg and cinnamon, aromas rich and memorable becoming the prelude to the Christmas feasting.

Thanksgiving does not offer much leeway with its main course. Turkey is the traditional bird. But for Christmas there may be thoughts of roast goose, a haunch of venison, an elegant sirloin of beef, baked ham wrapped in a pastry blanket, glazed and ornamented. The choice of wine can, of course, be champagne, with inexpensive choices of good Charmat bubbly from Gallo or Cribari, to those luxurious grande marque selections from France. But whether it's goose or beef, maybe even turkey again, a fragrant claret wine of Cabernet Sauvignon breed seems indicated for stellar billing on the menu.

Once upon a time, the late Karl Wente, of Wente Brothers of Livermore, said that perhaps as many as 95 percent of American wine consumers poured wines within a matter of hours of the time of purchase. All too many of the good consumers do not have wine cellars in which to hold and age wines to peaks of bottle ripeness. In an extension of this frank reality, a good many people enjoy the youthful zwang of younger wines — "we like that best to which we are accustomed."

If ever there was a time for selecting the finest of the aged red wines of the cellar, the Christmas feast is that event. But weep not if you do not have such a store. There are very good wines available in both supermarkets and wine shops to fill out the bill.

ONLY LAST WEEK, in Sonoma County, we found two Cabernet Sauvignon wines which, while young, will be elegant discoveries well worth pouring, or putting away, and another already with four years of wine-ripening, from the Hoffman Mountain Ranch in the Paso Robles area.

The first recommendation is the latter, the 1976 HMR San Luis Obispo Cabernet Sauvignon ($10) from the Hoffman Mountain Ranch. In a telephone call from Switzerland, a prominent Swiss hotel and restaurant figure told us he hoped we could persuade Dr. Stanley Hoffman to share with his European company a good share of this wine which he felt was "as fine as Lafite!" It is mellow, soft, rich, of fine breed, ready to enjoy now. Alas, the quantity is limited.

Next, from Alexander Valley Vineyards of young winemaker Hank Wetzel III, an Estate Bottled 1978 Alexander Valley Cabernet Sauvignon ($6.50). Aged in both American and French oak, blended with 10 percent Merlot, it has a wonderfully rich and complex bouquet, already full and delightful. It is a big wine, but not a monster; it will marry with foods without an overpowering swagger. Don't miss it. Cellar age will, of course, bring it to even more subtle complexity.

A visit with Bill Bonetti at Souverain began with his 1979 North Coast Colombard-Blanc ($3.50) which is a bargain of positive merit. The blending with Chenin Blanc gives the wine both additional substance and flowery bouquet, an intensity and character often missing in 100 percent Colombard wines. A 1.9 residual sugar is balanced with 0.8 total acidity. While this pleasing, light white wine is reminiscent of German Moselle wines of a wholly different grape origin, it has that gentleness, but with an undeniably explicit and positive character.

Bonetti's 1977 North Coast Pinot Noir has refinement and grace, but needs yet a little time to round out its full potential.

Several years ago, when winemaker Bonetti asked our opinion of his unreleased 1974 Cabernet Sauvignon, we paused, and then, with sudden decision, said, "It's like Deborah Kerr. It has classic elegance, but is also very seductive." Who can forget the English actress in that scene with Burt Lancaster in From Here to Eternity with the waves washing over them on the beach in Hawaii?

From then on, that 1974 Souverain Cabernet Sauvignon was Deborah Kerr! The opulence of the 1975 successive vintage became Gina Lollabrigida. And when he presented us with the just-released 1978 North Coast Cabernet Sauvignon-Vintage Selection (re: $8.50), he smiled and asked, "Who is this one?"

It took three of us several swirling sniffs and contemplative swallows before we agreed, nodding our heads that this was Katherine Hepburn . . . a wine of pure breed, cool, direct and unequivocably fine!

It is certainly a Christmas claret, both for now and years to come.

Brown Bag Cinema to screen two films

Animal Communication and The Art of the Tin Toy comprise the double feature to be shown Thursday, Dec. 18 at 1 p.m. in the Brown Bag Cinema series at Sunset Cultural Center, Ninth and San Carlos, Carmel. Those interested should bring a bag lunch at noon to eat on the terrace.

Animal Communication looks at the variety of signals used by a dozen species, from insects to primates, to observe the cricket's special mating song, how some birds and tropical fish use color, and the importance of scent in the life of dogs.

The Art of the Tin Toy is about the heyday of tin trains, boats, cars, and figures at the turn of the 19th century. The toys once thrown away or left in attics have now become valuable collectors' items often worth hundreds of dollars.

Sunset Center will provide coffee. Lunch is enjoyed in the Chapman Room when the weather is inclement. Films are screened in the Leonard Carpenter Hall.

Admission is free and no reservations or tickets are required. For further information, phone 624-3996.

Local author to autograph Carmel area history Saturday

A Tribute To Yesterday, a new book about the history of Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur, Point Lobos, Carmelite Monastery and Los Burros, will be autographed by its author, Sharron Lee Hale, Saturday, Dec. 20 from 1-3 p.m. at Holman's Department Store on Lighthouse Avenue in Pacific Grove.

The book, published by Western Tanager Press, is a large format fully-illustrated history of the area from the Spanish exploration to the present. It focuses on the people who settled Carmel and includes many rare historical photographs in addition to some sketches of Carmel buildings by the author.

Sharron Lee Hale, 40, was born, raised, and now lives in Carmel.

Everyone is invited to attend. For further information, phone 372-7131.

Garden Club to decorate for shut-ins

The Carmel-By-The-Sea Garden Club invites everyone to participate in making Christmas decorations for shut-ins this season.

In conjunction with the Piccadilly Nursery decoration project, a service sponsored by the Carmel Business Association, and with the help of service organizations, a collection center will be set up Thursay and Friday, Dec. 18-19 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. where people may bring donations. The police department will block off spaces so that donors will have no parking problems.

Bring donations to Piccadilly Nursery, Dolores South of Ocean Avenue, Carmel.

Decorations should be on the small side. Suggestions are little pots or decorative containers, wreaths, candles, small trees, or fresh flower arrangements.

Donations will help cheer the homes of those unable to decorate during the holidays.

For further information, phone 624-0136.

obituaries

Margaret Colman

Margaret Reynolds Colman, 71, of Carmel, died Dec. 10 in Driftwood Convalescent Hospital.

She was born in Greenwich, Conn., and had lived in Carmel since 1925.

Mrs. Colman had been a director of the Handicapped Activities Unlimited Workshop.

She had worked with her late husband, Paul, in their Seaside carpet business.

She leaves two sons, Norman R. of Carmel and Jerry of Sacramento; a daughter, Betty Colman Murphy of Lake Chelan, Wash; a sister, Elizabeth R. Wishard of Woodside, and four grandchildren.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Walter Pilot, 76; owned market

Walter Pilot, 76, a former Carmel businessman, died Dec. 9 at his home in Glendora.

A native of Smoky Lake, Alberta, Canada, Pilot came to Carmel in 1925 and opened Walt's Dairy on Ocean Avenue. In 1944, he bought the old Lucky Store on Ocean Avenue and opened the Pilot Market. In 1966 he moved it to the site now occupied by Bruno's Market.

Pilot was a former president of the Carmel Kiwanis Club and was a member of the Elks Club.

He leaves his wife, Lois; two daughters, Suzann Forster of Santa Cruz and Cynthia Moss of Carmel; a son, Walter Lee Pilot of Gresham, Ore., and two grandchildren.

Virginia Laurenti

Virginia P. Laurenti, a resident of Carmel 15 years, died Dec. 4 in Community Hospital.

She was born in Springfield, Mo.

She was a member of the Carmel Foundation.

She leaves a daughter, Karen Laurenti of London, England, and a sister, Bernice Shean of San Francisco.

Private cremation was planned by the California Cremation Society.

Louise Barstow

Louise Wilson Barstow, 96, of Pebble Beach, died Dec. 7 in Driftwood Convalescent Hospital.

She was born in Bradford, Pa.

She leaves a son, Richard, of Pebble Beach; 10 grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren.

Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Grace Dodge, 89

Grace Galpin Dodge, 89, of 26035 Rotunda Drive, Carmel, died Dec. 4 in Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital.

She was born in Southwick, Mass., and lived in Simsbury, Conn., most of her life. She moved to Carmel in 1973.

She leaves a daughter, Dorothy Wilber of Carmel, two grandsons, and four great-grandchildren.

Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Howard Murphy

Howard C. Murphy, 93, of Carmel, died Dec. 10 in Plum Tree Convalescent Hospital in San Jose.

Mr. Murphy had lived in Carmel since 1947 at Carmelo and Seventh.

He was born in Newport, R.I.

He developed air purification procedures and equipment and was vice president of American Air Filter Co. of Louisville, Ky., from 1922 to 1947.

He leaves his wife, Anna Mae; a son, Robert of San Jose; a sister, Mrs. Margaret C. Parsonage of Jacksonville Beach, Fla.; four grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Brown Bag Cinema to screen two films

Animal Communication and The Art of the Tin Toy comprise the double feature to be shown Thursday, Dec. 18 at 1 p.m. in the Brown Bag Cinema series at Sunset Cultural Center, Ninth and San Carlos, Carmel. Those interested should bring a bag lunch at noon to eat on the terrace.

Animal Communication looks at the variety of signals used by a dozen species, from insects to primates, to observe the cricket's special mating song, how some birds and tropical fish use color, and the importance of scent in the life of dogs.

The Art of the Tin Toy is about the heyday of tin trains, boats, cars, and figures at the turn of the 19th century. The toys once thrown away or left in attics have now become valuable collectors' items often worth hundreds of dollars.

Sunset Center will provide coffee. Lunch is enjoyed in the Chapman Room when the weather is inclement. Films are screened in the Leonard Carpenter Hall.

Admission is free and no reservations or tickets are required. For further information, phone 624-3996.

Local author to autograph Carmel area history Saturday

A Tribute To Yesterday, a new book about the history of Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur, Point Lobos, Carmelite Monastery and Los Burros, will be autographed by its author, Sharron Lee Hale, Saturday, Dec. 20 from 1-3 p.m. at Holman's Department Store on Lighthouse Avenue in Pacific Grove.

The book, published by Western Tanager Press, is a large format fully-illustrated history of the area from the Spanish exploration to the present. It focuses on the people who settled Carmel and includes many rare historical photographs in addition to some sketches of Carmel buildings by the author.

Sharron Lee Hale, 40, was born, raised, and now lives in Carmel.

Everyone is invited to attend. For further information, phone 372-7131.

Garden Club to decorate for shut-ins

The Carmel-By-The-Sea Garden Club invites everyone to participate in making Christmas decorations for shut-ins this season.

In conjunction with the Piccadilly Nursery decoration project, a service sponsored by the Carmel Business Association, and with the help of service organizations, a collection center will be set up Thursay and Friday, Dec. 18-19 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. where people may bring donations. The police department will block off spaces so that donors will have no parking problems.

Bring donations to Piccadilly Nursery, Dolores South of Ocean Avenue, Carmel.

Decorations should be on the small side. Suggestions are little pots or decorative containers, wreaths, candles, small trees, or fresh flower arrangements.

Donations will help cheer the homes of those unable to decorate during the holidays.

For further information, phone 624-0136.

Old-fashioned party planned at P. G. Art Center

Pacific Grove Art Center is planning an old-fashioned Christmas party Friday, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m.

Included in the festivities will be a public tree trimming and stringing of popcorn and cranberries. Everyone should bring an ornament.

Refreshments will be served and guests are asked to bring pot-luck Christmas goodies. The sound of Christmas music and roving carolers will fill the Main Gallery.

A living art pageant depicting a scene from Dickens' Christmas Carol will be performed. Excerpts from the story will be narrated with an interpretative dance.

Hopefully, a visit from good 'ole Saint Nick will be enjoyed.

Everyone is welcome. The art center is at 568 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove. For further information, phone 375-2208.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

TO THE DEFENDANT: A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiff against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must, within 30 days after this summons is served on you, file with this court a written response to the complaint. Unless you do so, your default will be entered on application of the plaintiff, and this court may enter a judgment against you for the relief demanded in the complaint, which could result in garnishment of wages, taking of money or property or other relief requested in the complaint.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
ORDINANCE NO. 80-23

AN ORDINANCE MODIFYING REQUIREMENTS FOR HEIGHT OF BUILDINGS AND SIDEYARD SETBACKS IN THE RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT

THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN as follows:

Section 1. Part X, Section 1310.7 of the Municipal Code is amended to read in its entirety as set out in Exhibit "A" which is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

Section 1. Subdivision c of Section 1341.2 and Section 1350.49 of Part X of the Municipal Code are amended in their entirety to read as follows:

1341.2 c. To vary building height regulations for structures up to a maximum height of thirty-three feet (33'). Such application for a variance shall be accompanied by a topographical map prepared by a civil engineer or licensed land surveyor with contour lines not more than one foot (1') apart which indicates that excessive slope creates a hardship of the land along with evidence that existing development on adjacent sites within the block or an adjacent block facing the site has buildings which are equal to or exceed the height of the variance requested.

1350.49 FINISHED GRADE: The level of the finished surface of the ground adjacent to the exterior walls of a building.

Section 3. Section 1350.48 is added to Part X of the Municipal Code to read as follows:

1350.48 EXISTING GRADE: The grade of a building site prior to the placement of any fill on the site or any excavation or removal of earth from the site.

Section 4. Part X. Section 1310.7 of the Municipal Code is amended to read in its entirety as set out in Exhibit "B" attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

Section 5. Section 1302.9 of Part X of the Municipal Code is amended as follows:

a. The words "or remove" are deleted from subparagraphs (b), (c) and (e) of Section 1302.9.
b. The word "or" is added to the first line of sub-paragraph (b) after "enlarge," to the first line of subparagraph (c) after "enlarge" and to the first line of subparagraph (e) after "establish."

Section 6. If any part of this ordinance is found invalid, the remaining parts shall remain valid.

Section 7. Any ordinance or parts of ordinances or code sections or parts of code sections in conflict with this ordinance are repealed.

Section 8. Effective Date: This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final passage and adoption.

PASSED AND ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF CARMEL-BY-THE SEA THIS 8th day of December, 1980, by the following roll call vote:

AYES: COUNCILMEMBERS: ARNOLD, BROWN, BRUNN, LLOYD, LAIOLO
NOES: COUNCILMEMBERS: None
ABSENT: COUNCILMEMBERS: None

Signed:
BERNARD LAIOLO,
Mayor of Said City

ATTEST:
Jeanne Kettelkamp,
City Clerk thereof

CERTIFICATION OF ORDINANCE

I, JEAN KETTELKAMP, the undersigned, City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of City Ordinance No. 80-23, which has been published or posted pursuant to the laws of the State of California and the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

DATED this 10th day of December, 1980.

JEANNE KETTELKAMP,
City Clerk

EXHIBIT "A"

SECTION 1310.7 HEIGHT LIMITATION: Buildings within the Residential District shall not exceed any of the following:

a. No building shall have more than two stories.
b. No building shall exceed twenty-four feet (24') measured from the average existing grade at the buildng perimeter.
c. No building shall exceed twenty-four feet (24') in height measured from existing grade adjacent to the exterior walls of the building at any point of measurement or from the finished grade of any building at any point of measurement.
d. The plate line of any building shall not exceed twenty feet (20') measured from existing grade adjacent to the exterior walls of the building at any point of measurement.
e. No building shall exceed fifteen feet (15') in height above existing grade measured at rear of property line within fifteen feet (15') of the rear property line.
f. The height of fireplace chimneys or vents shall not exceed a height of thirty feet (30') above the existing grade.

EXHIBIT "B"

SECTION 1310.75 SIDE YARDS: Side yards shall be provided for all buildings in the R-1 Residential District and each side yard shall be determined by the length of the front property line. Side yards shall be equal to ten percent (10%) of the length of the front property line, except for 40 x 100-foot lots or narrower, which shall have a minimum setback of three feet (3'). A corner lot of record shall have a minimum side yard adjacent to the public street of five feet (5'). A property owner may at his discretion transfer fity percent (50%) of the required side yard setback to oen side or the other, but in no case shall a side yard be reduced to less than three feet (3'). The only encroachments that shall be allowed into a side yard setback are eaves extending not more than fifty percent (50%) into such setback, masonry stoops and stairs serving the first floor only, which may extend to the property line. Fireplaces may encroach into side yards which exceed three feet (3') but in no event shall the fireplace be permitted closer than three feet (3') to the side property line. Minimum entryways, porches, stairs or ramps are permitted in the street side setbacks no closer than eighteen inches (18") to the side property line with the permission of the Planning Director and the Chief Building Official. When a corner lot of record is combined with an adjoining inside lot of record and resubdivided into two (2) building sites, no building shall be erected or maintained nearer to the street than ten feet (10'). In determining side yard setbacks for irregular shaped lots, the front and back yard width shall be combined and an average taken from the two dimensions and ten percent (10%) of this average shall determine what the side yards shall be.

Weddings are news...

Weddings are very special events and we want to tell about them. Here is how to submit your engagement or wedding news:

Obtain a wedding information for at the offices of the Pine Cone and Outlook, Ocean and San Carlos. If you prefer, write us at P.O. Box G-1, Carmel 93921. We will be happy to mail one to you Photographs of the bride or the bride and groom together are welcomed. There are no restrictions. Both color and black and white photographs will be accepted. We cannot guarantee return of photographs. As a courtesy to the wedding parties, we will not publish a wedding story until after the wedding. For more information, call 624-0162.

You're probably wondering why your car was stolen.

You forgot to lock it.

Funny thing about your car. You left it, just for a minute, to run in for some dog biscuits. Next thing you know, you and the dog biscuits are standing on the corner, waiting for a bus. Maybe this hasn't happened yet. But if you keep leaving your car unlocked it probably will. So lock your car, and take your keys, every time you leave it. And don't leave tempting packages on the seats. Find out more about preventing crime. Write to: Attorney General's Crime Prevention Center, Suite 290, 555 Capitol Mall, Sacramento, CA 95814. That's one way to . . .

FREE WANT ADS

For subscribers to the Carmel Pine Cone

A SPECIAL OFFER TO OUR VALUED SUBSCRIBERS

The Pine Cone is happy to be here and we always look forward to meeting our subscribers. As a gesture of our thanks for your continued support, we invite you to have a FREE WANT AD every week, in your paper.

HOW TO WRITE A WANT AD

List the classification you want your ad to appear under in the form at right. Then start your ad with the item you have for sale, etc. Be sure to include your phone number at the end. To make your ad effective, describe your item fully including such things as weight, size, color, age, condition, etc. It is best to list your asking price; this will eliminate calls from people who are not prospective buyers.

RULES:

Free want ads are for person-to-person sales only. Ads for businesses or real estate will not be accepted. Free ads must be written on this form only and delivered to our office by 3 p.m. Monday (no phone ads, please). Free ads are limited to 16 words. The Pine Cone is not responsible for errors in free ads. Limit is one ad per subscriber per week. To run the same ad the following week, a new ad on a new form must be submitted. Publisher reserves the right to refuse any free ad for any reason. Free ads must be placed in the following classifications: Antiques, Autos for Sale, Boats for Sale, Lost & Found, Misc. for Sale, Pets & Livestock, Special Notices, Wanted, Yard Sales.

This label is your ticket for a free ad and must appear here on any ad you turn in. Clip this label from the front page of your weekly Pine Cone.

ATTACH THE ADDRESS LABEL ON YOUR PERSONAL COPY OF THE PINE CONE HERE

Silence along Pescadero Canyon

Tall, softly upholstered pines surround this hideaway and mark the beginning of Del Monte Forest which stretches away to the north. A few gnarled oaks fill in lower spaces, and one twists its way up through the 2 decks that front on the greenbelt.

The house sits below Pescadero Road, at the end of a curving drive. Its exterior is rough natural redwood, with narrow battens, accented with black trim. The entrance, flanked by a beveled glass window, opens on a small tiled hallway.

Directly to the left is a 14 × 20 office, with two greenhouse windows, a long wall of work space with cabinets below, white walls and cedar floors, and access to the spacious lower deck.

The lower level also includes 2 sizeable bedrooms, a TV or family room and a mirrored bath with shower. One bedroom features a 3rd greenhouse window, and the other opens out to a sunken hot tub in the completely protected deck.

A carpeted stair off the entry hall brings you up to the second level. Here are a large (26 × 13) living room with 2 skylights, dining room with still a 4th greenhouse window, walled off kitchen, wet bar, redwood faced fireplace, spacious open deck screened by bamboo, and the master suite.

The latter includes a huge, skylighted bedroom with sliding glass doors to the deck; a comfortable, windowed dressing room; and a 2 compartment bath with a second access to the living room. This is paneled in diagonal redwood, skylighted and tiled about the glassed-in tub and shower.

All in all, 2025 sq. ft., double Genie-doored garage, beautiful well-kept grounds, and less than 1/2 mile from downtown Carmel! A lovely sanctuary close to the action. 24780 Pescadero Road. $350,000.

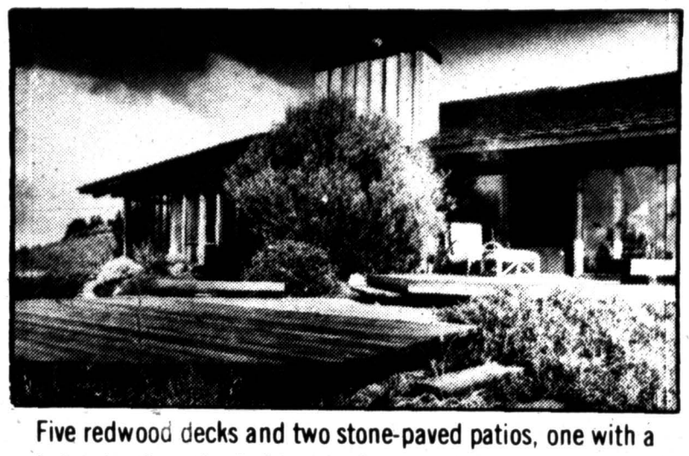
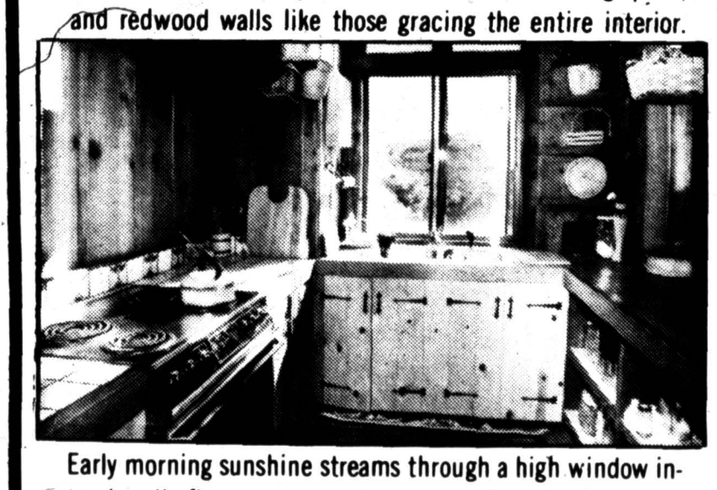
Big Sur Coast

South of Carmel on Highway One, a locked gate guards the road winding up to Garrapata Ridge and the ten-acre site of a home planned to take full advantage, inside and out, of panoramic views of the ocean, coastline and mountains.



Five redwood decks and two stone-paved patios, one with a hot tub, the other with a barbecue, also low-care landscaping, surround the house with redwood exterior walls, a shake roof and floor-to-ceiling windows capturing views.

Beamed ceiling and floor of native pine, stone fireplace, and wrought iron, spiral stairs leading to a loft studio are found in the living room, with windowed dining space, and redwood walls like those gracing the entire interior.



Early morning sunshine streams through a high window into the tile-floored, compact kitchen with pine cabinets, electric range, tile and butcher block counters, one of which opens to the living room as breakfast/serving bar.

Pine is used, too, for the ceiling and floor of the bedroom with access through a window wall to a deck and the hot tub. Features of the adjacent, brick-floored bathroom are a footed tub set in a windowed alcove and handcrafted tilework around the washbowl in a shuttered cabinet. Also off the hallway leading to the bedroom area is a laundry. Price of this home, distinguished by meticulous craftsmanship of native materials and entered through a sheltered garden where hummingbirds hover over colorful flowerbeds and the solacing stillness soothes the soul, is $385,000.
